

of a controversy between hemispheres. It has nothing whatever to do with and furnishes us no guide with reference to dealing with different sections or different conditions internal in any Central American country.

No Right to Impair Sovereignty.
Here the senator quoted Elinor Roosevelt's declaration that "the Monroe Doctrine does not assert or imply or involve any right on the part of the United States to impair or control the independent property of any American state."

"At the time it was announced," Mr. Borah went on, "the United States was the only power upon this continent of sufficient strength, economic and political, to assert the doctrine announced by Mr. Monroe. At that time the struggle was going on for the domination of these countries by foreign powers, and, as announced, it was for their benefit equally with ours."

"But Mr. President, if that doctrine be construed or widened so as to include the right of the United States, in any way to interfere with the complete independence and sovereignty of the South American countries or the Central American countries, it becomes a danger and not a shield to these people."

Seen Shield for Exploitation.
"As Mr. Roosevelt states, this appeal to the Monroe Doctrine is always made when there is any exploitation or any invasion or any justification of South American imperialism in Central or South America."

"I understand perfectly, of course, not only the right but the duty of the United States, as of any other power, to protect the rights of its citizens or their property at whatever place they may find themselves or their property may be located. It is only Mr. President, when that doctrine is used for the purpose of establishing a policy which reaches far beyond the mere protection of the rights or the property and which interferes with the sovereignty of a people, which results in carrying on war against the people that I find myself in discord with some of those who are responsible for constructing these policies."

Reviews Nicaraguan History.
At this point, the senator reviewed Nicaraguan history since 1909, when Estrada, with the same Gen. Chamorro now figuring in the present Nicaraguan revolution, overthrew President Zelaya. Mr. Borah said Moffitt, the American consul at Bluefields, aided and abetted the 1909 revolution. Estrada became president with the vice presidency going to the same Adolfo Diaz, who is the Nicaraguan president now recognized by the United States.

"We have Chamorro in charge of the Estrada forces," Mr. Borah said. "We have Diaz, at that time one of his allies and advisers, made vice president by the assembly over which Chamorro exerted the same influence that he did in 1925. Diaz at that time was clerk of an American corporation at $1,000 a year. He contributed some $400,000 to the revolution of Estrada."

"The United States landed marines and pacified the country and recognized Estrada. Shortly afterward, Diaz supplanted Estrada as president. With the Diaz government the United States made the Nicaragua canal route treaty in 1912."

Calls U. S. Action a Disgrace.
"We made the loan treaty and we made the canal treaty with ourselves," Mr. Borah asserted. "Diaz would not have remained in Managua over night—he owed his political life, if not his physical life, to the presence of the force supplied by the United States—and while that force was there we made a loan which he approved, and we made a canal treaty."

"I say, Mr. President, that that transaction is as pronounced and unconscionable an act of imperialism as ever disgraced any nation with whom we have in the past been willing to exchange criticisms."

"The loan was unpopular in Nicaragua," said Mr. Borah, "but the opposition was overruled by American military force."

"Mr. President, until we take the judgment of the Nicaraguan people."

Rebels, Fleeing from U. S. Troop; Pillage Nicaragua

BY GERALD MARTIN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 12.—Betwixt the devil dogs and the deep blue sea approximately 4,000 liberal outlaws are marching in half a dozen groups in various parts of the interior. They nominally are under the leadership of Gen. Moncada. They are beyond communications, except for runners, devoid of coast or other bases, living off the country, commandeering cattle from harmless farmers, upsetting peaceful villages, recruiting and carrying off every available youth, and often mistreating the inhabitants.

Nicaragua, about the size of New York state, with only ninety miles of railroad, plus inferior state telegraphs, almost everywhere is cut off, facing a guerrilla warfare among the downtrodden peons, led by German officers in many instances, and piling up a national debt approximating $500,000 a month.

This Tribune correspondent recently visited Matagalpa, which during the rainy season it is almost impossible to reach within three days' motoring over miserable roads. The Nicaraguan coffee metropolis nervously is wondering when the end will come. Daily information arrives that the rebels are advancing and recruiting men.

In Liberal Stronghold.
Mainly foreign, largely American, owned, these coffee plantations figure they will lose $2,000,000, in addition to bank overdrafts which it may take years to pay. Sixty-seven American and British women and children have been living for a few years in this delightful place, yet cut off from their homelands and for the last year, as well as in previous years, fearing daily the advancing enemy forces, whose arrival means sackings of the town, taking over cattle and supplies, recruiting coffee workers, and oftentimes worse.

Yesterday I journeyed to Leon. This, and get their judgment upon what has happened, and their approval, we will never be able to come out of Nicaragua until the rebels are completely routed. We encamped upon the White House grounds of Nicaragua for thirteen years. We will camp there for a hundred years unless we go back and secure the judgment of the Nicaraguan people upon these transactions."

Charges U. S. Destroyed Court.
The next count in the Borah indictment of the conduct of the United States was that we ignored the finding by the Central American international court, which had been set up under our auspices, that the canal treaty was invalid and thereby destroyed the court.

Then Mr. Borah got down to recent events. He recounted the election of Solazano and Sacasa in 1925. Shortly afterward, Gen. Chamorro effected a coup d'etat, and, said Borah, Diaz was the coup d'etat. Solazano resigned and Sacasa was chased out of the country. We refused to recognize Chamorro, but recognized Diaz, elected by the same congress, Borah said, that elected Chamorro.

He disputed the President's statement that the congress electing Diaz had been purged of the members arbitrarily seated by Chamorro. The Idaho senator said that Vice President Sacasa, who was still absent, was entitled to the presidential office under the Nicaraguan constitution.

Opposes Peace by Force.
"Never in the world can we have peace in Central America," said Mr. Borah. "If we force upon the people of Nicaragua or the people of other South American countries those who are not supported by the popular rule."

"Does the senator propose to have peace by force?"

a fair election if he will not permit the marines to stay there to see that fair elections are held?" asked Senator Bingham.

"I have not said anything about withdrawing the marines; they are there," Borah replied. "We should have an election; we should give the people an opportunity to vote their sentiments; we should, if we are going to stay there with the marines, keep them there in defense of the government which the people themselves want."

Lenroot Makes Reply.
Senator Lenroot, in replying to Borah, asserted that the Monroe Doctrine is indirectly involved in our Central American policy.

"If," he said, "we do not protect the citizens and property rights of European countries in Nicaragua and other Central American states, we must permit them to do so for themselves. We deny to European countries the right to enforce protection of private and personal rights by force. The United States will not tolerate the landing of troops by European nations in Nicaragua or elsewhere in an attempt to enforce their rights."

Senator Lenroot quoted from President Roosevelt an exposition of the Monroe Doctrine along this line. His defended Nicaraguan intervention of 1909 by Secretary of State Knox. He also defended our recognition of Diaz, whose fall was due to the actions of Wheeler (Dem., Mont.), Norris (Rep., Neb.), and Walsh (Dem., Mont.), who asserted Sacasa's right to the office.

Run Running Ship with 22 Aboard Is Believed Lost
Miami, Fla., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—The Mystery J., an old Long Island run runner, is believed by coast guardsmen and officials of the Allan line, its owners, to have foundered at sea with 22 passengers and its crew.

The Mystery J. sailed from this port Monday morning. Early tonight four coast guard cutters reported that they had found no trace of the vessel. Unusually high seas running made the search difficult.

The ship was on route to Nassau.

Robber Holds Up 3 Men in 3 Minutes on 1 Block
A Negro bandit last night in a single block on Calumet avenue, between 53d and 54th streets, taking three men in about as many minutes, taking $200 from them.

The first victim was William Nutzel of 5358 Calumet avenue, who lost $2; the second was Dorman D. Ford of 5300 Calumet avenue; from whom he took $195. He also took each man's watch.

FOUND DEAD; BLAME ALCOHOLISM.
Alcoholism is believed to have been the cause of the death of Joseph Corcoran, 50 years old, 324 South Racine avenue, who was found dead in his room last night by his landlady, Frank Hoffman.

PERU REJECTS KELLOGG PLAN TO SOLVE ARICA ROW

But Leaves Door Open for New Proposal.

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 12.—The Tribune correspondent learned from official sources this afternoon that Peru's reply to Secretary of State Kellogg's proposal to solve the Arica row is a document some 3,800 words in length, the greater part being dedicated to a historical review of the controversy.

Peru states that, in a "spirit of traditional deference which the republic has always" accorded to the opinion of the United States, it must in this case reject the latest proposal of the state department.

Bolivia Out of Controversy.
Bolivia, it points out, is, in the opinion of Peru, extraneous to the controversy, the issue having been by arbitral award confined strictly to Peru and Chile.

The Peruvian reply leaves the door open to further negotiations, reaffirming Peru's approval of Mr. Kellogg's original proposal for a tripartite division of the disputed territory, Peru to secure Tacna and Arica and the railway, granting to Bolivia, without cost to that republic, a port in the south of Arica; with Chile retaining the southern section of the disputed territory, which Peru claims is rich in mineral wealth.

Deputies Support Rejection.
Rada y Gamio, minister of foreign affairs, appearing before the chamber of deputies last night in a secret session, secured a unanimous vote of confidence from that body in support of the government policy.

According to information available here, the Peruvian reply, following its decoding and transcription, will be delivered to the state department by the Peruvian ambassador at Washington either today or tomorrow.

His Footprints in the Snow Undo Taxi Bandit

His footprints in the snow early yesterday led detectives to the home of Leo Gurke, 21 years old, at 2141 North Leavitt street, soon after he had robbed Charles Schwengel, a taxicab driver, of $12 in front of 2112 Charleston street. The scene of the holdup is only three blocks from Gurke's home. Schwengel, calling detectives, helped them to follow the trail. Gurke, after his arrest, confessed he had robbed several other drivers, police said.

time, and for the present I would rather not discuss my marriage affairs."

Talks About These Millions.

Some one mentioned that in Los Angeles his fortune is reckoned at $15,000,000. He laughed. "I'll take the six," he said. "I'm glad, however, that I am rated so highly."

"It might have been better for you to have given your wife a couple of those millions and arranged a pleasant divorce," some one suggested.

"We discussed a settlement," he said, intimating that Mrs. Chaplin's demands had been exorbitant, "but nothing came of it. I don't know what she wants now."

"Is there a possibility of a reconciliation?" he was asked.

"None," he replied, with a smile.

At Toledo he was shown Associated Press dispatches, one of which said his first wife would be a witness for Lita to prove her charges, supposedly those relating to the allegation of indecency.

Chaplin laughed at this.

NO MOVE TO BAR FILMS HERE.

Films starring Charlie Chaplin are not likely to be barred from Chicago theaters because of Chaplin's divorce troubles, Miss Edith Ziegler, head of the city movie censor board, said yesterday.

Her statement was made after Chaplin's visit here yesterday, when he stopped over night on his way from Los Angeles to New York and was prompted by a resolution of the Illinois League of Women's Voters, meeting at Stretcher, which asked that Chaplin's films be barred.

"The only thing that might cause us to act would be a sudden revival of old Chaplin pictures because of the publicity," she said. "If protests are made we would see if we could legally bar them."

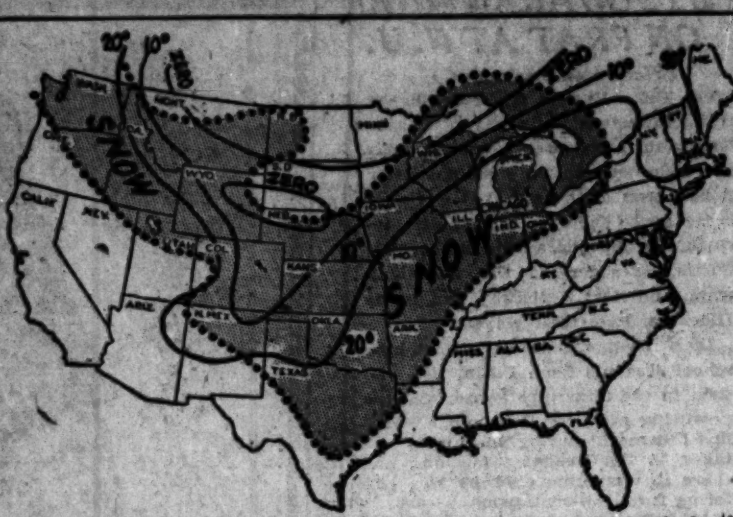

No Chaplin film has come into Chicago since the release of "The Gold Rush," more than a year ago. Miss Ziegler said. His latest production, "The Circus," is not yet finished.

Does No Reason to Act. Whatever the censor board does, she added, would be subject to the advice of the corporation counsel. A representative of the corporation counsel's office said last night he could see no legal reason for action under any circumstances.

"The censors may out objectionable scenes," he said, "but they are not judges of an actor's private life. If so, why not bar the novels of Poe or Wilde because they were charged with being immoral. Moreover, Chaplin hasn't been convicted of anything yet."

Somebody talked of the reversionary proceedings reported in Los Angeles. Not much differently than if he had been out on the role, Chaplin shrugged his shoulders, patted his pocket, and said: "I haven't heard the details of that yet. Perhaps this is all the money I have."

WILL EXAMINE BOOKS

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 13.—(Special.)—Books, vaults, cash funds, and secret business archives of Charlie Chaplin are to be opened to the joint inspection of the court receivers and the attorneys of Chaplin's wife at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in the closed down Chaplin studio.

Chaplin's local attorney, Lloyd Wright, will be a party to the conference. Tomorrow's legal operations will be the receiver's first step toward account for the $15,000,000 of property which Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin has asked the Los Angeles County court to appertain between herself and the actor she seeks to divorce.

The forty-two page divorce complaint of Mrs. Chaplin was withdrawn from the public files in the county clerk's office by Chief Deputy County

Clark H. F. Gregg this afternoon. "The complaint has been requested," Mr. Gregg said. "There have been so many people in here demanding the right to read Mrs. Chaplin's divorce papers that it has disorganized my office. There have been old men, young men, flappers, and married women."

"These papers are not filed here with the object of satisfying a public curiosity. The divorce paper hereafter will be read only by persons who have official and legal right to see it."

Mrs. Chaplin's complaint alludes to eight women, five of them characterized as "prominent motion picture actresses," about whom, the suing wife charges, Charlie Chaplin made confessions to her.

None of the actresses are mentioned by name.

"If it becomes necessary to mention these women, we will, of course, expect to do so," Attorney Lyndol Young, chief counsel for Mrs. Chaplin, said this afternoon. "Of course, the other side may ask for a deposition from Mrs. Chaplin, and demand that she identify the women by name. In that case, the deposition will be made. There are no charges in Mrs. Chaplin's complaint which we are not prepared to back up."

Mildred Harris, Chaplin's first wife, who married the comedian at the age of 18, became a mother, and divorced Chaplin in 1920, when she was 18 years old, expressed her opinion of the sensational denouncement of Chaplin's second marital venture today.

"I am really and truly sorry for both parties," Miss Harris said. "I have never met Lita Grey Chaplin, and it has been some years since I saw Charlie. I have my own baby now. Miss Harris is now Mrs. Everett Zachary McGovern, and I want to stay out of this terrible Chaplin business if I can. I don't want a dead chapter of my life to be dragged across the records of the court again."

CHAPLIN DIVORCE PLEA HEADS LIST OF BEST SELLERS

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Printed copies of Lita Grey Chaplin's sensational divorce complaint headed the list of best sellers here today when on sale at 25 cents net. The first edition was exhausted tonight.

For the last two days the county clerk's office has been besieged by persons seeking an unabridged version of the spicy charges contained in the forty-two page document. The waiting line included movie extras, law students, school girls, and fashionably gown women.

FORD SUIT SNAPS OUT OF ROUTINE TO HEAR EXPERTS

Income Tax Authority and Others Questioned.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)—
Detroit, Mich., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—
The Ford stock tax case suddenly called to the stand this afternoon a heavy set middle aged man who knows all about income taxes, and the courtroom snapped out of its drowsy browse through pages of stipulated testimony and took a newly interested lease on life.

The heavy set middle aged man was Percy S. Talbert, the same who, in May, 1919, while an official of the internal revenue bureau, had been sent to Detroit and had there made the investigation of the Ford Motor company, which resulted in the now famous dispute valuation of the company's stock at $9,489.34 as of March 1, 1919.

As for Mr. Talbert's knowledge of tax matters: He took the oath, settled himself in the witness chair, Joseph E. Davies, counsel for the plaintiffs, asked: "Tell in your own way your connection with the treasury department."

Had Been Called in 1919.

And then it came out that Mr. Talbert had been with the treasury department from 1896 until December, 1919, that as chief of the law division he had had a not inconsiderable hand in writing the income tax act of Oct. 3, 1917, that he had had active charge of the income tax unit in 1918 during the period when it grew—rivaling the growth of the Ford company itself—from a body of 215 employees to one employing 5,500, that later he had been chief of the technical division unit, the division that handled the most difficult cases, and that in 1919 he was chairman of the important committee on appeals and reviews.

"Now, you are the same man who made the valuation of the Ford Motor company in 1919?" asked Mr. Davies. "I am," said Mr. Talbert, and he continued: "I was told that there was a disturbing situation in Detroit, that a feud of great bitterness had developed between Mr. Ford and the minority stockholders."

He was halted by two of counsel for the government, who jumped to their feet together, and cried, "Objection!" in the same breath.

"Well, Deputy Commissioner Callahan told me," Mr. Talbert explained. "He said the stockholders were unwilling to sell until they knew what their taxes were going to be."

Then he spoke two sentences that were significant. "There were wide margins between the various valuations that might be placed on the company," and "Callahan said that it was by order of Mr. Roper that I should go to Detroit."

Why Mission Was Not Made Known. Mr. Talbert arrived in Detroit May 5, 1919, and with four assistants made an examination of the Ford company that lasted several days.

He told no one, however, of the reason for the investigation for Callahan had told him that it might prove embarrassing to the negotiations if word got out.

Once more there were objections that were overruled, and the session adjourned until tomorrow with Mr. Talbert on the point of telling just how the valuation was reached.

This first important human witness.

Victim's Relatives at Pastor's Trial

Mrs. D. E. Chipps and her son, D. E. Chipps Jr., at Austin courthouse, where the Rev. J. Frank Norris, Fort Worth clergyman, is on trial for murder.

was, however, not the sole occupant of the spotlight, for today Herbert Pope, attorney for Plaintiff John W. Anderson, and Franklin D. Jones, counsel for the estates of John F. and Horace E. Dodge, occupied their share. Mr. Pope, reading the Anderson stipulation, established how firmly the minority stockholders had relied on the Roper valuation in selling their shares of Ford stock in June, 1919. Anderson, a stoutish, bald headed man, who sits in the courtroom every day, was more careful than his fellow shareholders in assuring himself that the Roper valuation would hold good. In a written document he insisted that it be mutually understood that a letter from Roper to Arthur A. Ballahyne of the Old Colony Trust company of Boston, agent for the Fords, setting forth the $9,489.34 figure, be on deposit with the Detroit Trust company this letter was identified later by Ralph Stone, president of the Detroit Trust company.

Submits Weighty Stipulation.

After Mr. Pope came Mr. Jones, with the bulkiest stipulation of them all, Stipulation No. 1, which contains facts and figures about the Ford company earnings and dividends, some of which have never been published before—certainly not in so concise a form.

The government listened and failed to be impressed. Young Alexander W. Gregg, the treasury department's general counsel, got up and stated one of the government's chief contentions—that is, that the Roper valuation for March 1, 1919, was entirely too high. Mr. Gregg objected to the admission in evidence of any figures pertaining to dates later than March 1, 1919, for, he argued, it is very easy to deduce backward from the facts of 1919, but how could any one in 1919 have foreseen the Ford Motor company was going to do.

He was overruled by Judge Sternhaven, Van Foss, and Marquette, subject to the plaintiff's production of evidence showing that the later statistics are relevant.

WOMAN STABS WOMAN IN BOW. Mrs. Viola Watkins, colored, 20 years old, 2133 Archer avenue, is in a critical condition at the County hospital from knife wounds inflicted by Anna Clay, 23 years old, also colored, of 4309 South Wabash avenue, during an argument yesterday on the street in front of 51 West 20th street.

NORRIS FIGHTS TO BAR MINISTER AS ONE OF JURYMEN

But Ex-Klansman Will Judge Pastor Slayer.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)—
Austin, Tex., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—
The First Baptist church of Fort Worth, the Sunday school rooms, the pastor's study and office where the Rev. G. Frank Norris shot and killed Dexter E. Chipps last July, will be moved in replicas into the County court here tomorrow, when the evidence will begin in the trial of Dr. Norris for murder.

The jury was completed late today after hours of examination in which the Ku Klux Klan and the religious struggle behind the scenes definitely came into the open. The trial promises to be one of the most bitterly fought in Texas' history. With the minister on the witness stand, and his old enemies from Fort Worth after him, including Mayor H. C. Mescham, almost anything in the way of fireworks is looked for.

The jurors from their dais will be able to look into the interior of the church, which is built on a scale making it two feet high. Dolls or wax figures were discussed to represent the principals in the tragedy.

Dolls to Portray Killings.

"No, make it skeletons," said Bill McLean, chief prosecutor, who is battling to send Norris to the electric chair for the pentecostary. The state's case will be brief, merely the testimony of coroner and undertaker an dwo eyewitnesses, said to have been discovered recently. The chief effort of the prosecutors will come in rebuttal.

Dr. Norris passed on each of the jurors and thinks he has a number who will support "the side of the Lord," as he conceives it. He fixed them with his "hypnotic eyes," his face expressionless as a mask, a perfect poker face, as they took the oath. The majority are not church members. There are no members of the Roman Catholic church on the jury, but ex-klansmen may be there. The Methodist, Presbyterian, Church of Christ, Nazarene, and Pentecostal are represented.

Norris Fights to Bar Minister. An ex-Methodist minister offered himself as one of Norris' judges, but Norris would not have him. This Methodist tried hard to get out of answering the question as to whether he disliked Norris or not, and finally said he did not, but qualified it by saying that his dislike for Norris' position and doctrine did not extend to the man.

Lee Caldwell, an auto salesman, was sworn in as a juror after he had admitted that he had been a member of the Klan until Jan. 3 last. Two days preceding his resignation he had received his summons for the Norris venire. He had had it in his mind for two or three weeks to quit, he said. District Attorney Moore asked:

"If it developed that the defendant

FIRST HER SONS, THEN STRANGER, GET HER SAVINGS

Just a week ago Mrs. Alvina Lesinski of 1316 Julian street had a capital of $4,500 and she worked all day in a pickle factory for $14 a week so she wouldn't have to cut into it to live. She mistrusted banks and kept the money hidden in tin cans around her home.

Then her sons, Anthony, 14, and Louis, 15, took $1,100 of it and went out for a good time. Before the police caught them they had spent more than half the money. That taught Mrs. Lesinski a lesson—she put the remainder in a bank.

But yesterday there came a well dressed stranger who talked to Mrs. Lesinski of bonds, some yielding 7 per cent. He offered to go with her to buy some.

Mrs. Lesinski went with the stranger to the Illinois Merchants Trust and Savings bank. There she drew out $2,900—almost all she had left. She gave it into the stranger's keeping and they boarded a Clark street car going north. At Randolph street the stranger suddenly leaped off, and, although Policeman Bertosek pursued him, he disappeared.

was now it had been a member of that secret organization, would that have any effect on you in giving an unbiased verdict?"

Dayton Moses, chief counsel for Norris, jumped to his feet with objection.

Klan Issue Waxes Hot.

"I wish to state here and now," he said, "that the defendant in this case is not now and never has been a member of the Ku Klux Klan and this question is highly prejudicial to the defense."

Jess Martin, Fort Worth district attorney, said:

"We believe Mr. Moses is mistaken and that the defendant has been a member."

Lee Joyce, former detective employed by Norris, is said to have addressed a Klan meeting of 2,300 members and ex-members in Austin on Dec. 30. It is said that a Klan parade in the interests of Norris was discussed, but city officials vetoed it.

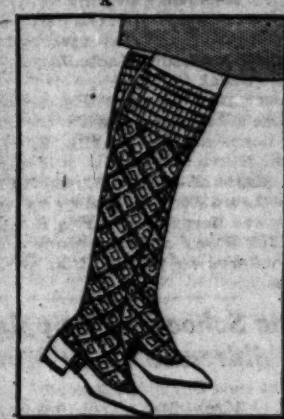

Dr. Norris has been referred to often as a klansman, and is reported to have gone to Atlanta to take the super-oath. Such an oath permits denial of membership in court.

HIGHWAY CHIEFS OF 'SIPPI VALLEY OPEN CONFERENCE

The annual convention of the Mississippi valley conference of state highway departments opened yesterday with eight group meetings at the Hotel Sherman. The convention, which will continue until Saturday, is held for the purpose of discussing development in state roadbuilding, engineering, and maintenance.

The meetings are held secretly in order that the work of material, machinery, and allied highway interests may be discussed by the state officials, officers of the conference said. G. F. Schlesinger, director of highways and public works of Ohio, is president of the organization. States represented at the convention are Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, North Dakota, Ohio, Missouri, and Minnesota.

Cops Feed Hungry Thief, Too Weak to Run Away

Sven Swenson, 25, of St. Paul, matched the purse of Mrs. Sarah Dicker, 1319 South Adams avenue, last night, and he was captured by Policeman William J. Duffy at Lake and Wells streets, because he was too weak from hunger to run away. The detectives believed Swenson's statement that he had had nothing to eat since he came to Chicago from St. Paul two days ago, so they bought him a big steak and booked him for larceny at the bureau.

SEES RIVER POOL OF POISON IF LAKE DIVERSION STOPS

Wisner Warns of Danger to Chicagoans' Health.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(Special.)—Testimony that the Chicago river and the connecting channels used for the dilution of sewage by the Chicago sanitary district would be turned into a festering stagnant cesspool of deadly germs if the water diversion from Lake Michigan was completely stopped, was given today before Charles Evans Hughes, special master of the United States Supreme court in the lake levels controversy.

George M. Wisner, consulting engineer for the Chicago sanitary district and intimately connected with the sewage work in Chicago since 1892, was the principal witness. Appearing for the district, the state of Illinois and the allied Mississippi valley states, Wisner said that the time never will come when the water diversion from Lake Michigan can be completely shut off or even reduced to 1,000 cubic feet a second without endangering the health of the citizens of Chicago.

Answers Feet's Demands.

Answering the demands of Wisconsin and the five other lake states now seeking a Supreme court injunction stopping the water diversion, Mr. Wisner said that Chicago is so large and the sewage problems so difficult that water from Lake Michigan always will be needed to supplement the work accomplished by sewage treatment plants.

Mr. Wisner said that even in 1946, when all contemplated sewage treatment works should be completed, the water diversion could not be eliminated without endangering Chicago's water supply.

"In 1892," Mr. Wisner said to deplorable conditions before water from Lake Michigan was used to dilute sewage, "the Chicago river was a stagnant, filthy stream. It was a cesspool tank festering on the bottom and sending upwards dangerous poisonous gases. The crust of filth sometimes became so thick that a chicken could walk across the river. At other times the crust caught fire."

Feet Hole of Typhoid.

"The Chicago river was a pest hole of typhoid and intestinal disease germs. The average death rate prior to the building of the Lake Michigan river by Lake Michigan water was 40 deaths per 100,000. In one year it was 174 a 100,000. Engineers estimate that for every death from typhoid three other persons died from intestinal diseases."

Asked by Attorney Edmund D. Adcock of counsel for the sanitary district if other streams than the Chicago were affected, Mr. Wisner replied that at one time the Des Plaines river, the old Illinois and Michigan canal, and waters as far as Lockport were filled with poisonous gases. He asserted they were so bad that paint on houses as far as three-quarters of a mile from the river canal were blistered and blackened until it peeled.

"Chicago," Mr. Wisner told Master Hughes, "cannot dump its sewage on its water front and keep it away from its source of water supply."

"What would happen if the water diversion was stopped tomorrow?" asked Mr. Adcock.

More Industrial Waste.

"Such a thing would be unthinkable," Mr. Wisner answered. "It would bring on worse conditions than existed in 1900. The population has increased and there is more industrial waste. I know of no way that science could

LAUNCH PLANS FEB. 22 TO HONOR WASHINGTON ON 200TH BIRTHDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(Special.)—The movement for commemoration in 1932 of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington will be launched on Feb. 22, when President Coolidge is scheduled to address a meeting of congress. This was announced today following a meeting of the Washington anniversary commission, of which President Coolidge and Vice President Dawes are members. At today's meeting Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard was asked to make an effort to collect letters and writings of Washington in order to clear his name of derogatory charges which have been published recently.

Care for sewage so Chicago's health would not be endangered. Sewage treatment plants will do what they can, but water will always be needed. Mr. Wisner was not asked as to how much water diversion would be necessary to safeguard Chicago's health in the future, but he testified that a maximum of 10,000 cubic feet per second is needed now to keep the river from reversing in flood seasons. Continuing the testimony he began yesterday, H. P. Ramey, assistant district engineer, said $4,000,000 has been expended since 1908 in works for the artificial treatment of sewage.

Rivers-Harbors Measure Goes to President.

Washington, D. HOUSE COMMITTEE VOTES INDOORSEMENT OF HAUGEN FARM BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(Special.)—Farm relief legislation advanced a step today when the house committee on agriculture by a vote of 13 to 8 voted to report the Haugen bill. Representative Haugen [Rep., Ia.] was authorized to request a special rule to make its consideration in order on the floor at an early date.

Its sponsors profess to hope that the bill can be passed by the house and that there is a slight chance for favorable action in the senate. Opponents declare it cannot be passed by either branch of congress at this session.

The bill authorizes the appropriation of $250,000,000 as a revolving fund and $500,000 for expenses of administration of the act by a federal farm board composed of the secretary of agriculture and twelve members—one from each land bank district.

Provision is made for an advisory council for each basic agricultural commodity to represent the producers in dealings with the board.

REED COMMITTEE TO SEIZE VOTES IN PENNSYLVANIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(Special.)—As the first step in its investigation of charges of wholesale fraud in the last Pennsylvania senatorial election, the senate committee directed to conduct the inquiry decided today to seize and transfer to Washington ballots cast in Philadelphia and Allegheny counties, of which Pittsburgh is the center. Ballots in 133 rural precincts also will be taken over.

It was in Philadelphia, and Allegheny county that William B. Wilson, the Democratic nominee, charged, in a petition filed with the senate, that there were widespread irregularities which benefited Representative William S. Vare, his Republican opponent.

On the other hand, Vare, who was elected on the face of returns, asked the committee to look into the returns from the 133 country precincts, in which he received only 480 votes. He was requested to furnish the senate sergeant at arms a list of the precincts referred to.

In addition to the ballots in the precincts affected, registration, poll, and voters' check lists, and return and tally sheets will be examined. Committee members estimated it would take several freight cars to transport the ballots and accompanying lists to Washington.

The committee is headed by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri.

HOUSE CONDEMNS 'PENNY PINCHING' IN ARMY BUDGET

Demands 119,000 Soldiers and Better Food.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(Special.)—Economy at the expense of national preparedness was sharply condemned by the house appropriations committee today when it submitted to the house a bill authorizing $357,925,818 for war department activities during the fiscal year 1927, and rejected virtually every major recommendation of the budget bureau.

In the formal report which accompanied the bill, the committee voiced its disapproval of economies forced or urged by the budget bureau which have resulted, to cite a striking example, in the reduction of the average strength of the army from 113,750 authorized by congress to slightly more than 110,000 at present.

Noting that in the report that the congress has definitely indicated its approval of a force of not less than 113,750, the committee rejected the recommendation of the budget bureau that appropriation be made for a maximum strength of 115,000 and the bill as submitted provides for a maximum of 113,750, including 1,548 in the newly created air corps.

Ration Allowance Boosted.
Similarly, the bill boosts the ration allowance rate from 23.74 cents a man—the army standard for 18 years—to approximately 40 cents a man and the report includes a warning that "while there is no requirement in the bill itself, the committee proposes to rely upon the administrative authorities to see that every dollar of the increase is applied as intended."

The warning, it is generally understood, is intended as a direct slap at the so-called "two per cent club" organized by Director of the Budget Lord from among those department heads who are successful in shaving at least two per cent annually from the appropriations made for their activities.

Among the other major departures from the budget bureau recommendations are increases over the bureau's estimates to permit the fulfillment of this year's phase of the five year aviation program, $845,889 more than the budget bureau would allow for National Guard activities, $447,878 more for the organized reserves, and $333,416 more for the civilian military training camps than the bureau would have allowed.

With the other substantial increases recommended by the committee and renewal of appropriations unspent in the current year, the bill represents a total boost of $2,763,976 over the budget bureau's estimates.

Tells of 13,644 Desertions.

Minutes of the committee's executive sessions during preparation of the bill reveal the general dissatisfaction which is felt throughout the army as a result of the reductions of recent years. Gen. Summerall, chief of staff, testified before the committee that 13,644 men deserted the army in the year ended June 30 last.

During the same period, it was testified, 9,345 enlisted men purchased their discharges from the army and 137 officers resigned.

"A great many are due to dissatisfaction in the army," declared Gen. Summerall, referring specifically to the desertions. "Instead of leading the life of a soldier and being trained in the normal duties which fall to a soldier, they are employed on a great many types of labor for which they receive no special pay and for which they would receive very high pay in civil life. This is necessary to meet economic conditions that prevail."

Disatisfied with Food.
"They are dissatisfied with their living, the poor housing which is given them and which they have to struggle to keep in order. They are dissatisfied with the low scale of food that is furnished them. The ration is the lowest in cost and the most restricted in variety and quantity of any furnished by the government."

U. S. GOOD WILL FLYERS ARRIVE IN HONDURAS AFTER 200 MILE TRIP

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

MARAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 13.—The United States "good will" flyers are expected here Friday noon from Amapala, Honduras, where they arrived at 10:15 o'clock this morning, covering the 200 miles from San Salvador in two hours and fifteen minutes. They flew over the belching volcano San Miguel, passing through tremendous smoke clouds.

They were welcomed at Amapala with a cannon salute and were decorated by officials, and later conveyed by automobile to Tegucigalpa, the capital, where the Honduran president cordially responded to President Coolidge's letter.

This afternoon the planes New York and St. Louis started for Panama to reach spare parts from France field.

PUNTARENAS, Costa Rica, Jan. 13.—Two planes of the Pan-American flight squadron, the New York and the St. Louis, arrived here at 2 o'clock this afternoon from Amapala, Honduras.

REVERSE DECISION GIVING $235,000 TO MRS. LUDLAM

Federal Judge Samuel Alschuler and Evan A. Evans yesterday handed down an opinion reversing Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who had awarded Mrs. Mabel Arvey Ludlam $235,000 in a suit in which she sued her former guardian, the late Joseph H. Channon. Judge George T. Page, third member of the Circuit Court of Appeals here to review the case, filed a dissenting opinion.

The original suit charged that Channon had committed fraud in the conduct of Mrs. Ludlam's affairs and asked $250,000 damages. The case was defended on the claim that Mrs. Ludlam had signed three releases awarding all property to Channon on the receipt of a clear claim to a $70,000 property.

The new plan of action being considered—most of which information came from A.M. Arvey, chairman of the council judiciary committee and chairman of the mayor's home rule commission—is aimed to give positive proof that the people of Chicago want home rule.

The act creating the Illinois commerce commission provides that all its powers over utilities shall be transferred to any city when that municipality decides that it wants them upon a prescribed referendum. Article 28 of the act says that in order to obtain such a referendum there shall be a petition filed of 25 per cent of all the electors who voted for majority candidates last time and that a majority

FINDS PATH TO HOME RULE IN COMMERCE LAW

Voters Can Free Chicago, Ald. Arvey Says.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A movement is on foot to retrieve home rule over public utilities in Chicago. No announcement has been made and probably none will be until the plan of action has been considered and practically decided upon, and the assistance of persons likely to be influential in such a crusade have been enlisted in the movement.

The subject has been discussed informally at a meeting of the mayor's commission on home rule and a statement on the matter has been ordered prepared. This is being drafted by the corporation counsel's office and probably will be ready next Tuesday.

Each legislative session since the public utilities act was passed in 1913 there has been a clamor by local public officials for a restoration of home rule. Certain state senators, representatives and utility operators have charged that the people in Chicago are not really concerned with home rule.

The new plan of action being considered—most of which information came from A.M. Arvey, chairman of the council judiciary committee and chairman of the mayor's home rule commission—is aimed to give positive proof that the people of Chicago want home rule.

The act creating the Illinois commerce commission provides that all its powers over utilities shall be transferred to any city when that municipality decides that it wants them upon a prescribed referendum. Article 28 of the act says that in order to obtain such a referendum there shall be a petition filed of 25 per cent of all the electors who voted for majority candidates last time and that a majority of those who vote at the election must cast affirmative ballots to exempt the city from the Illinois commerce commission rule. The plan is to submit such a referendum at the mayoralty election in April.

In the meantime several amendments to the commerce commission act will be presented to the state legislature. One of these will provide for a petition of two or five per cent, instead of 25 per cent; another will substitute a majority voting on the referendum for a majority of those voting at the election at which the referendum is submitted. Under the present law an appeal from a city decision would be to the state commerce commission and then to the courts.

Another amendment will seek to remove this intermediary appeal. The referendum proposed under the present law can only be submitted at a mayoralty election. It is proposed to amend that section so that a vote can be taken at any general election.

Regardless of whether any of these amendments is adopted by the legislature before the April election, it is now planned to get the required 125,000 names to a petition and have a referendum anyway.

Grows New Hair on Thin Places

New method revives dormant hair roots

HERE is new hair under written guarantee; falling hair completely stopped under guarantee. You are asked to take nobody's promise. You pay nothing if the Van Ess method fails. It is folly not to try it.

It does what no other method does or has ever done: Massages powerful root-rejuvenating and germ-combating elements directly into the follicles (roots) of the hair. It is protected under U. S. patent.

It cultivates a totally new growth of hair—lustrous, wonderful hair with the sheen of youth actually grown where now thinning—or you pay nothing. You just rub it on your head, morning or evening, for scarcely a minute.

In last two years, it has proved 70% effective, according to record, in some 200,000 cases of falling hair, semi-baldness and even total baldness. That means success followed in the great majority of cases. Consider what this means.

Why then go on feeling yourself with old-time losses? This method grows the hair roots people need to restore. Go to any drug store. Get the Van Ess Liquid Soap Massage. Written guarantee to grow new hair in 30 days, to stop falling hair completely, supplied by the dealer with full treatment. Costs the same as ordinary hair preparation.

Adequate Wording of TRIBUNE WANT AD Produces QUICK RESULTS

FROM Cleveland a satisfied Want Advertiser sends her experience with Chicago Tribune Want Ads. The room she had for rent in Chicago was small, but the phrase "On one of America's finest boulevards" gave her ad distinction and brought her a desirable roomer every time she advertised.

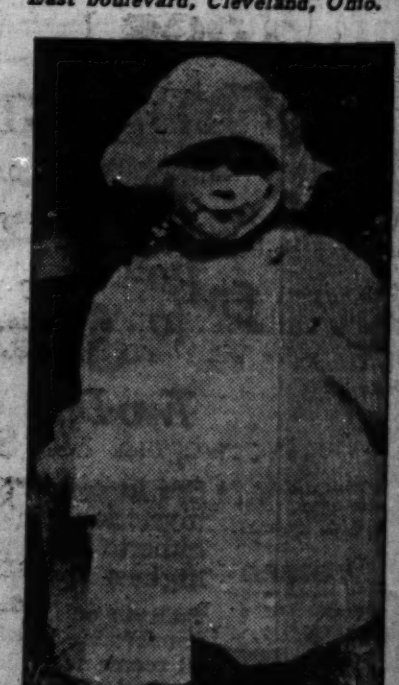

Boston terriers, or any other pets, will stray from home occasionally. To retrieve quickly these happy playmates for the children, use a Tribune "Lost and Found" Want Ad!

Letters in the $1,000 Want Ad Contest are being judged now.

Watch for the Winners! They will be announced soon

"When we lived in Chicago, we advertised an extra room several times, and although the room was small, we always found a desirable tenant. An attractive ad saying it was on one of America's finest boulevards, plus the extensive Tribune circulation, brought good results."—Mrs. Clara S. Stone, 1543 East boulevard, Cleveland, Ohio.

"Our little girl's pet Boston terrier strayed from home, so I placed an ad in The Tribune, giving a description of the dog and also stating the vicinity in which she was lost. Before 4 the next morning we received a phone call, telling us where we would find our dog. My wife hurried to the finder's home and returned with the lost terrier, to the great joy of our daughter, and also the hound."—Harry W. Slemund, for Helen Carl Slemund, 2714 Florence Avenue.

THE TRIBUNE'S PLATFORM FOR METROPOLITAN CHICAGO

1. Make Chicago the First City in the World.
2. Start Building a Subway.
3. Electrify the Railroads.
4. Abolish the Smokes Poll.
5. Build Safe Streets and Highways.
6. Re-establish Constitutional Representation.

MORE TRACTION FUNDAMENTALS.

The so-called billion dollar traction plan proposed by Henry Blair, one of the reformers for the north and west side street car lines, is the fourth proposal in the field. Like the other plans, it must be judged in relation to certain fundamental facts and principles. As it conforms with these principles and recognizes the facts, it is sound, and as it does not, it should be revised or rejected.

No matter which solution is adopted, then, it must be admitted that the surface lines are soundly built and cover the city well. The money used in laying the rails and buying the cars came from private investors who bought bonds signed by the city controller. The city treasury is not liable for the redemption of the bonds, but the city is clearly under obligation to permit no settlement which does not protect the investment of the bondholders. It is a debt of honor which cannot be evaded. It cannot be argued that the money was borrowed so long ago that the rails and cars bought with it have long since gone to the junk heap and with them any obligation, so far as the city is concerned, to see that the loan is repaid. At best, that is the argument of dishonesty and irresponsibility, and it cannot be advanced in this case in particular because the fact is that the roadbed and rolling stock of the surface lines are in excellent condition and will be serviceable for a number of years to come.

The rails and cars have been bought and paid for and nothing is to be gained by throwing them off the streets. So long as the street cars are running, the money needed to repay the bonds can be earned. For that reason alone it is unwise to consider replacing all the cars with buses, but it would be unwise as well to spend sums in the purchase of additional street cars and the laying of more rails because surface car transportation leaves much to be desired so far as speed and comfort are concerned. If it is shown to be possible to refund the surface lines by the grant of another twenty-year franchise and during that period to retire the bonded indebtedness, the city will be fortunate. Indeed, it is certainly undesirable to give the surface lines any permanent rights in the streets. Technical advances in rapid and uninterrupted. The city, at some future date when invention has created a new and superior method of transportation, should not have to pay back the streets from the car companies. Recognizing that Laramie's entry into the field gives Chicago competition for street car franchises, the city council should scrutinize the details of his plan carefully.

Buses are desirable additions to the transportation system but should not be allowed to run on streets used by the surface lines. Buses can serve as feeders for rail transportation and as extensions of the present surface lines. Bus lines, it need scarcely be added, should be placed under the supervision of the city government.

So far as rail transportation in the city is concerned, future construction should be either of elevated lines or subways. The existing surface lines, run by bus, can take care of the short hauls, and the long hauls require greater speed than can be obtained with safety at the street level. Where real estate values are not high, elevated lines are preferable. Subways are desirable in congested districts and can be paid for largely through special assessment because they will increase the value of real estate.

Practical men will look upon proposals for consolidation of all existing transportation lines under one management with skepticism. The conception is academic. The difficulty of operating so huge an institution is likely to offset any theoretical advantages it may have. It is true that the transportation agencies of the city should operate as a coordinated whole, but the coordination may be obtained in part through the natural adaptation of the various types of transportation to different needs and in part, also, through regulation by the city. Universal transfers are no doubt desirable but might be obtained through an intercompany arrangement as well as through consolidation.

As for extensions of the elevated lines are concerned, they should present no great difficulty. Given fair terms, the elevated company should be only too willing to construct any extensions which are needed. On the other hand, the city can build and own the subways by a wise expenditure of the traction fund and the imposition of a special assessment. The city will have no difficulty in renting the subway and its incidental facilities at a fair rate, particularly if there is competition for the privilege of using it.

THE TRIBUNE advances these points as self-evident, fully cognizant of the gap in political circles that the street car companies and the dominant influence in the legislature have agreed upon legislation authorizing indeterminate franchises and consolidation.

AS SOME PATRIOTS ARE.

Secretary Kellogg of the state department has given the senate foreign relations committee the information on which the United States government bases its action in Nicaragua and its policy in Central America. He did not satisfy the doubts of Senator Borah, chairman of the committee, but it is reported that both in the senate and house the government conduct will be approved. Mr. Borah does not think that a case has been made out, but he is said to be willing to make a speech about it and let it go at that.

The evidence that Mexico was foolish enough to back a side in Nicaragua and ship in arms seems to be convincing, and apparently both Mr. Kellogg and President Coolidge believe that the Russian soviet egged the Calles government on. That also seems to be a bit of insanity, but from time to time the soviet leaders make clear their doctrine that any mischief anywhere is good mischief. A proletarian attack on the United States by way of Central America to overthrow representative government here lacks the prospect of success which a sensible revolutionist might require, but trouble is trouble in soviet opinion.

Mr. Kellogg's ideas of Red tricks in Latin America are sometimes jeered at by our liberal minded. In addition to whatever specific evidence the secretary of state may have in this case he can point to various confirming communist undertakings at various times in China, the near east, Italy, Hungary, and elsewhere. Many of our liberal minded regard either as absurd or as deliberate fiction any reports of unfriendly acts against the United States, and they also regard as self-apparently true any report that the United States is engaged in some half handed work of indefensible outrage against any weaker country any one may mention.

This is a formula, and it does not require any information or inquiry to stamp it on any possible program which the American government may adopt, particularly in regions where it has the greatest responsibility and the greatest interests. According to this formula it is impossible that Mexico, Russia, or any Central American disturber could be trying to get the United States into a mess of trouble, but it must be entirely true that the United States is engaged in frightfulness for creditable purposes wherever it lands marines. The motto which goes with this is: My country; in her international relations may she always be wrong, and whatever she does, in my opinion she always will be. Some of our patriots have queer emotions.

THE NEGLECTED WEST SIDE.

Chicago has magnificent boulevards leading to the heart of the city from the north and south. They have made property values in the districts they serve. The west side has nothing comparable to the boulevard. So far as direct access to the loop is concerned, the west side, with all its population, is not much better off than it was in the horse-and-buggy era. The west side then had Washington boulevard and Jackson boulevard and that has been now.

Recently there has been a revival of interest in giving the west side a worthy automobile highway to the center of the city. Unfortunately, differences of opinion over the choice of a street for improvement are tending to divide the backers of the project into rival camps. Some want Washington street, others Monroe, Jackson, Congress, Ohio or Harrison. Each of these streets offers some advantages not possessed by the others, but nothing will be gained by insisting that any one street is the only one which may be considered. This kind of stubbornness may satisfy the ego of the partisans but it will never get the west side what it most needs.

A BUSINESSLIKE BUDGET POLICY.

Six years ago the board of trustees of the state university adopted a ten year budget policy. Considering the needs of proper maintenance and a conservative building program, the board decided that it would not ask for more than $10,000,000 for each biennium and this course has been faithfully pursued for six years of the contemplated decade. We think it is safe to assume that as no extraordinary emergency has arisen, the appropriation asked for the university this year will accord with this policy and is likely to be one of the few which have not increased within recent years.

This policy evidently has been appreciated by the legislature, as it deserves to be, for the university budget has been adopted without much objection by at least the last three legislatures. It is a policy which does not encourage impulsive adventures but does allow for consistent and well considered development and planning over a period of years such as a competently managed private enterprise would carry on. It calls for economy and circumspection on the part of the university and the board, and therefore it ought, and evidently does, give assurance to the legislature that its demands are fair.

We could wish other public institutions and departments exhibited as much restraint and business judgment as the fiscal policy of the university. And may we add that some day the university may need additional aid? When that day comes its petition should receive a sympathetic consideration because of the record it is making of conservatism and responsibility.

Editorial of the Day

RECEIVED MEXICANS.
 (Philadelphia Public Ledger.)

Labor and agrarian members of the Mexican chamber of deputies ushered in the new year with denunciations of the United States. The policies of Washington in Mexico and Nicaragua were under fire. The familiar appeals for Latin-American solidarity were made, and it was declared that—

Mexicans may not be successful dollar chasers or know how to practice dollar diplomacy like the Yankees, but they know how to die for their honor and against foreign aggression. President Calles was hailed as national defender, and there was much talk about Mexicans knowing "how to die fighting." All this was expected. On the day when the land laws of Mexico, virtually dispossessing alien owners or actually confiscating the holdings of foreigners, went into effect an emotional and emotional outburst was reasonably sure.

There is, of course, no reason for anything of the sort. This nation has not the slightest intention of doing any injustice to Mexico or her citizens. As is proper, however, Washington is trying to protect the rights of Americans in that country, particularly those rights and titles legally acquired before 1917. All the ferocity seems to be south of the Rio Grande. A war with Mexico or any other country is the last thing this nation wants.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Davis

To the limit of space, questions pertinent to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelopes are inclosed. Dr. Davis will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

STUDY IN DUCTLESS GLAND TYPES.

THE man who knows nothing about trees, plants, flowers, birds, wild animals, and insects misses most of the pleasure of a walk in the open air. He goes his way either talking or thinking, for few of both, seeing nothing of things as he passes along. On the other hand, the man who knows something of nature is not dependent on associates, or even on his own thoughts. What he sees and hears as he walks along will keep him entertained.

The physician who knows something about the ductless glands and what they do in the way of fashioning the human body needs no one to talk to him as he walks along the street. There is no better sport for such a man than picking out the ductless gland types as he walks along. For this reason, I will give a new meaning in Pope's line: "The proper study of mankind is man." It is true that picking them out is about as far as we can go. Changing them much is beyond us. But then, if we continue picking them out, continue interesting ourselves in them in various and sundry ways, the time will come when we can do something to help them.

Dr. James H. Hutton tells of a family he knows. First, there was a father, five feet tall, weighing 145 pounds. His hands were long and slender. His feet were long and slender. His build was supposed to indicate a moderately active anterior lobe of his pituitary.

His wife was 4 feet 11 inches tall. She had hands typical of anterior lobe inefficiency. They had short, broad palms and short, tapering fingers. Her body showed a decided obesity. The characteristics indicated deficiency of the posterior lobe of the pituitary. Her skin was cold and alabaster white with a flushing of her cheeks. She had a swelling of the back of her hands and feet and of her neck just above the collar bone. Her hair was scanty. Her metabolic rate was low. These qualities showed that she had a thyroid deficiency in addition to her other deficiency.

The oldest daughter is 5 feet 2 inches and heavy. Her obesity is of the gland type. Her short stature, delicate frame, and small feet and hands indicate a thyroid deficiency of the anterior pituitary. Her type of obesity indicates deficiency of the posterior pituitary. She had a swelling of the back of her hands and feet and of her neck just above the collar bone. Her hair was scanty. Her metabolic rate was low. These qualities showed that she had a thyroid deficiency in addition to her other deficiency.

The second child was a son. He is now 46 years old, 5 feet 4 inches, and weighs 165 pounds. His hands are of the short, tapering, pituitary type. His palms are broad, his hair is rather thin. Nails good. Perspires well. His eyes show that he has a little exophthalmic goiter, but otherwise the evidence indicates that he has a thyroid deficiency. He has some gland obesity. The diagnosis is: "Deficiency of the anterior lobe of the pituitary." (Also a slight deficiency of the posterior lobe of the thyroid.) He has no children.

The fourth daughter is 46 years old, 5 feet 4, and weighs 165 pounds. She has had three children—the only grand-children.

The fifth and youngest daughter had a deficiency of both the anterior and posterior pituitaries, an ovarian insufficiency, and a deficiency of the thyroid.

HE HAS CONSUMPTION.

Mrs. A. A. writes: Will you kindly tell me about "tubercle bacilli from 2 to 3 per field?"

1. What are the diseases?
 2. Is it dangerous?
 3. Can it be cured and how?

REPLY:

In all probability you are another from a report on sputum. If so, the party has consumption. It is dangerous. Consumption can be cured provided the sick person will learn how and will and can carry out the treatment. He should go under the best medical care available at once.

If Charlie had said any more it would probably have been, "My dear, you can't imagine. I was so embarrassed. Honestly, dearie, you couldna knock me down with a feather."

AND HOW!

Dick: I'm waiting . . . and the first fellow that says and how! In the line . . . will I murder both cruel and bloody.

ANETIDE'S SEVENTH CURSE.

TO HERLOCK, FROM SNOWSHOE AL.

(Transmitted thru Mrs. Frost, celebrated Medium.)
 HERBERT: . . . Glad you are happy . . . you must have liked my tale. . . . Tell St. Peter to tell Charlie Chaplin's reservation. . . . Is Tommy O'Connor there? . . . See if my dog Wee-Wee-Knees arrived. . . . If so, mark him return his collar which is worth 8 bucks. . . . Did you hear the Solicitor up there? . . . What did Geo. Washington have to say about the colony? . . . Are there any poets there? . . . If so, why? . . . Mark yourself off with me. . . . Stay away from hell; they have a Rotary Club. . . . I will wipe off the top of my writing table tonight with a glass-rod rag. . . . No, 2 times on the table if you want me to bring you my new line-books. . . . My friend. . . . SNOWSHOE AL.

He Broke Down and Sobbed Like a Child.
 R. H. L.: The Spanish Inquisition, as compared to Steamer's recital of "The Heroes of France," seems like an ideal afternoon's entertainment. I could hardly bear it. How could Hank put such a sad, tragic thing in type?

OUR NEXUS.
 THAT NICE, WARM, and very delightful snowstorm yesterday must have driven Jack Gallagher, the w. k. correspondent of the Los Angeles Times, fairly mad. They love them with a passion. Out there and we'll bet the Times has two inch headlines this morning something like this: "Chicago Under Mile Deep Snow! City May Not Be Dug Out Until Spring! Temperature One Hundred and Ninety-five Below Zero! No Food Supplies and Citizens Eating Each Other!"

Let the Lawyers Never Forget That.
 Dick: I just thought of something terrible. Suppose Loeb and Leopold lose the case—and won't pay up, but decide to go to jail?

THE LITTLE ONE.

O, NOT FIRST OFFENDERS.
 R. H. L.: My eyes skidded off the Line yesterday and ran right into this heading over an editorial:

FOUR YEARS FOR ALDERMEN.

Say, Dick, I don't agree with that. I think some of them ought to be sent up for life. Don't you?

HOPEFUL.

QUITE BLISSFULLY around these parts, we must admit, But Brawley (Cal) reports a couple of earthquakes shook Chicago yesterday. To say nothing of the Chicago shocks. We still think we would rather live in Chicago.

MY TEACHER'S OLD HAT.
 REL: My teacher went to the store to buy a hat. The clerk took my teacher's old hat, peered inside to see what he would see, and then put the hat on the counter. Now, let's see, said the clerk, I guess something like this will look good on you, and he put a nice new hat on my teacher's head. . . . No, said my teacher, looking in the glass, that won't do. So the clerk took the hat away and brought another. Again my teacher looked in the glass. . . . No, said my teacher, I don't like that one. And the clerk took that one away and brought another. . . . No; that won't do at all, said my teacher. Now the clerk was a nice man. He brought hat after hat, but none would do; so the clerk didn't have any more hats to show my teacher. He took up the old hat and put it on my teacher's head. I'm awfully sorry, began the clerk, but before he could finish my teacher looked in the glass and said, I will take this one.

ORACLE.

HERE'S CHICAGO full of bandits and gunmen and with the police armed with machine guns, and yet that mean old hawk continues to murder our cunning little pigeons. But wait. Some day that hawk will chase a pigeon as far as Cicero as the same time two rival gin regiments clash in mortal combat. Then there won't be any more hawk.

Well, Being a Papa Is All That Man's Got Left to Brag About.

Dick: See by W. G. N. where Mr. Reuben Blend, proud father of thirty-four children, went to Washington to make Calvin Coolidge laugh. Huh! What about Mrs. Reuben Blend? Bet the papa of thirty-four kids is a damned sight softer job than being the mamma of 'em. And think of Mr. Reuben Blend swanking around and taking all the credit!

AND HOW!

R. H. L.: I know now why Cal wants U. S. to get along with a few in the army. McCutcheon's cartoon on the front page of Monday morning's Tarn had our beloved Uncle sitting on the fence and holding an army rifle in a perpendicular position by placing his hand on top of the muzzle.

E. Z.

LONDON says that the only hope we men have is to raise whippers because the girls have swiped all our mannish apparel, our voices, and our manners, but a beautiful beard is one thing they can't do. Can't they? Remember the Bearded Ladies of the old circus side shows. Darned if they can't do anything they want to do. Don't make 'em mad.

IT DOESN'T PACK VERY GOOD

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 14, 1862.

WASHINGTON.—The great event of the day has been the resignation of Simon Cameron, secretary of war, and simultaneously with Cameron's appointment to the St. Petersburg mission the naming of the Hon. Edwin M. Stanton to be his successor in the war office. The Kentucky influence seems to have had a finger in the pie; and to the differences between Cameron and Lincoln, so broadly shown in the secretary's report, is attributed their final separation. Whether it was wholly voluntary or not on the part of Mr. Cameron, time will show. New Cassius M. Clay, present minister to Russia, comes home to exchange his court liver for the uniform of military service. Mr. Stanton, the new secretary of war, has been a Democrat, and was Buchanan's reformed cabinet as attorney general. He is accounted the ablest lawyer in America. He is the confidential attorney of Gen. McClellan.

EDITORIAL.—The country will be curious to learn the cause of Cameron's resignation. Was it at his own instance? Or had the pro-slavery Unionists of Kentucky something to do with it? Ever since he made his report to congress, in which he recommended the confiscation of the slaves of rebels, and their employment in whatever capacity they could render the government the most assistance against the enemy, he has been hounded by the pro-slavery class of the South, led by the Louisville Journal. They have unceasingly harried in the President's ear for his head. It will be remembered that the Kentucky legislature made a formal demand for his removal; and that a committee of the most influential members, self-appointed and headed by Lieut. Gov. Fisk, left for Washington some time since. The public will be curious to know whether their mission has had anything to do with the change.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 14, 1862.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is now understood here that Winthrop Murray Crane, governor of Massachusetts, is slated to succeed John D. Long as secretary of the navy.

CHICAGO.—George H. Phillips, Board of Trade man, and his entire force, worked until after midnight behind locked doors of the one time "corn king's" office. It is said the first night's work for that office and it added to the feeling that has been spread about that the present grain campaign conducted by Phillips may be in danger. Like that of some of his previous deals. Statements that Mr. Phillips was again in trouble were thick around the Board of Trade.

CHICAGO.—The city of Chicago, through its mayor and council, has taken steps to welcome Admiral Schley when he comes here the latter part of this month, and to Board of Trade has adopted resolutions asking congress to review the record of the recent court of inquiry.

CHICAGO.—William Fife Sr., the yacht designer, is dead at the age of 84. He had been in business at Fairlie for more than sixty years.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 14, 1917.

CHICAGO.—Files and records of the Chicago body and city board were seized by federal agents to discover whether the city commissioners are responsible for price fixing, bringing about 55 and 60 cents a bushel.

CHICAGO.—Business men and civic organizations of this city won a victory in the house of representatives at Washington when the members, giving as a committee of the whole, voted to retain the pneumatic tube mail service at the Chicago postoffice.

CHICAGO.—Yacht designer attended the Allied board at the Coliseum; all gave lavishly to the charity. Society folk took an active part in the games of the occasion.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Peter Palmer lost her 17 year old son against the elevated railroad company for $20,000 damages she claimed for depreciation of her property on Walsh avenue along the elevated.

CHICAGO.—Congressman Eliot McDill McCormick was the principal speaker at the thirty-second annual banquet of the Old Time Printers' association at the Hotel La Salle, which was attended by 800 persons associated with the newspaper business in Chicago.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full name and address. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

STREET CAR SECURITY.—Central, Ill., Jan. 13.—I have been doing business with Chicago banks and business men since 1890, visiting the city from time to time to do course. On their recommendation, I invested several thousand dollars of my aged mother's money in the bonds of the Chicago City Railway company at 105 per cent of par. These bonds are due Feb. 1, 1927, and I am told they will not then be paid, though the city has in its treasury forty-five million dollars derived from the earnings of this property. Upon what theory of equity or justice can Chicago attempt to evade its responsibility to those who in good faith furnished the money to construct these utilities which were and are so necessary to its citizens? Every dollar derived from these bonds went into the construction of this property and at a time when costs of material, labor and construction were about one-half what they are today. Truly Chicago's leading bankers stated the truth when they represented them to their customers as being "quasi-municipal obligations."

In your editorial of this date dealing with this subject, you expressly state "No settlement can be considered which does not recognize the rights of the investors in these properties. The city was a partner in the enterprise. The responsibility of the city cannot be evaded. No settlement can be a good settlement which is built upon a foundation of confiscation." You might have added, Chicago need expect no favorable consideration from downtown, either from the voters or their representatives in the legislature, so long as she repudiates her moral obligations, or threatens to do so.

TAURUS.

HE THINKS IT'S HIS HAWK.
 Renwick, Ia., Jan. 13.—I am inclined to think that if the hawk in your city is a goshawk, it is my escaped falcon; he would be in his second year now. I took him from the nest just before he was able to fly, and hooded him, and kept him in the hay loft of the barn, removing hood only when I fed him, and always keeping him secured by leash to his perch.

FARM BARN LOTS are always full of pigeons if there is any way for them to get in, and no way mine. When he was about a year old I closed the openings so pigeons could not get out of loft.

GRACE.

SEE YERKS THERE.
 Chicago, Jan. 13.—I for one go downtown on an average of three or four times a week, and every time I go down I take a five pound sack of food, the pigeons around the art gallery.

ALDERMEN O. K. 2 NEW TRAFFIC LAWS FOR LOOP

Mid-Block Turns, Through Trucks Barred.

Two new traffic laws to lesson loop congestion, one forbidding mid-block turns and another barring through-bound buses and trucks, met the approval of Mayor Dever's special traffic committee yesterday.

The committee also sanctioned half a dozen other new sections in the proposed uniform traffic code recommended in the recent Association of Commissioners survey. Upon its revision the code will go to the council and park boards of the city for final action.

Under the new mid-block turn regulation a motorist cannot turn around any business or through street except at intersections. At present a driver may do so if he does not block traffic.

Says Theory Doesn't Work.

"That theory is all right, but it does not work," Mr. Miller McClellan, author of the new code, told the committee. "In an analysis of 250 cases we found that in 200 traffic was blocked, despite the driver's good intentions. The practice also causes many accidents."

AM. John Connelley (1st) opposed the change on the ground that it would run up the mileage of taxicabs, often forcing them to go several blocks out of the way. Mr. McClellan said, however, that the cab companies had approved the new plan.

The ban on through-bound buses and trucks is to be effective in the district bounded by Lake, Van Buren, and Franklin streets and Wabash avenue. The rule is aimed only at heavy vehicles which do not stop to pick up or unload freight or passengers in the loop.

Another revised section of the code prohibits unofficial traffic signs, such as "Stop," in big letters, and under that small letters, "Get Your Hot Dog Here."

Driver Must Have Clear Vision.

The youth who fills his coupe with four or five boys and girl friends also becomes a violator of the new code, which makes it unlawful to load a car so that the driver does not have a clear vision of all parts of the roadway.

Decreeing a rule making it illegal to "leave a horse or mule unattended in any street," Ald. D. S. McKinlay (10th) re-introduced his equestrian safety ordinance, which was laughed out of the council last spring.

"Why pick on horses and mules?" asked Ald. C. S. Eaton (5th). "Let's put lights on dogs and cats, too."

Ald. E. J. Frankhauser (49th) suggested strict instead. The suggestion was finally killed.

Lincoln Center Opens Drive for New Fund of $50,000

Abraham Lincoln center, 700 Oakwood boulevard, opened a campaign to raise $50,000 toward its endowment fund before Feb. 13 at a banquet last evening attended by about 100 corporate members of the board of directors and friends of the center. The gift of $100,000 to the endowment fund by one of the directors was recently announced.

AMERICAN EXPRESS EMPLOYEES GET WAGE BOOST FROM ARBITERS

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The American Railway Express company employees were granted a wage increase of 3 1/2 cents an hour by the board of arbitration, it was announced tonight by former Justice John H. Clarke, a member of the board.

The arbitrators also granted an extra allowance of 4 1/2 cents an hour to messengers in train service handling United States mail or railroad baggage. When handling both mail and baggage the increase will be 8 1/2 cents an hour.

The increase affects 80,000 employees in the United States. It is estimated that $4,500,000 will be added to the annual pay roll of the American Railway Express by the award. The decision to grant the increase was unanimous.

The negotiations began Dec. 3 last. Justice Clarke was appointed arbitrator representative of the public. The other arbitrators were E. A. Stedman, vice president of the American Railway Express company, and William B. Wilson, former secretary of labor.

IMPOUND BALLOTS IN RECOUNT; FIND SEVERAL FRAUDS

At the close of the second day of the recount of the November vote last night several hundred ballots had been impounded because of suspected fraud, and will be closely scrutinized by County Judge Jarecki with the aid of experts.

In the twentieth precinct of the Forty-second ward it was discovered that, although the vote between Martin J. O'Brien and George P. Harding for county treasurer stood 28 to 132, the judges and clerks had recorded it as 129 to 112, the precinct captain of each party apparently getting credit for better work than he actually did. The Democratic candidates for sanitary district gained from 8 to 16 votes while the Republicans lost from 116 to 112.

In the nineteenth precinct of the same ward, Municipal Judges John Buege and John Sbarbaro, both near northsiders, each lost 224 votes by the recount. Irregularities also were discovered in the thirty-second precinct of the Fourteenth ward.

21,209,774 Tons in 1926, Calumet District Shipments

Freight from various docks of the Calumet steel district during 1926 totaled 21,209,774 tons, the South Chicago Chamber of Commerce reported yesterday. Of that amount, 10,347,115 tons left the port of South Chicago, and 10,862,659 tons left the ports of Indiana Harbor and Gary. The Illinois Steel company was the largest individual shipper of the year, its tonnage amounting to 5,917,536.

NEBRASKA BILLS HIT SHEIK, VAMP, AND GOLD DIGGER

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Two Omaha state senators, one a bachelor and the other a married man, are attacking and defending Nebraska "sheiks" and "vamps" who may happen to fall into litigation in their place to steal some one else's husband or wife.

The bachelor, Senator John W. Cooper, plans to introduce his now celebrated "anti-sheik" bill in the senate despite its defeat at the last session. The bill provides that any man or woman who elopes with some one else's spouse would be guilty of a felony and should be given a jail sentence.

From Love Bait at One Cent. The married senator, W. R. Chambers, today countered Senator Cooper's proposal by introducing a bill providing that in any civil suit for alienation of affections or breach of promise no jury shall be allowed to award damages to exceed one cent.

Both are confident of their bill's passage.

"We romantic men have to have some protection, too," Senator Chambers explained. "We believe that love is something which should be the last of all things to sell at a price on the open market. And when designing women so manipulate things, under the guise of love, as to maneuver men into positions where romance costs money and sells at a certain price, the price fixed by romantic men on jewels, love sells on the open market and romance is leveled to the dust."

Male Stealing Made Crime.

"My bill is no joke," Senator Cooper urged. "It is a penalty was placed on the practice of these sheiks and vamps stealing some one else's mate, there would be fewer alienation suits. Male is a criminal offense, and fewer homes will be broken up by this practice."

"The most common error made in speaking of my bill is the conclusion that the penalties would be assessed for mere triangular romances. The bill actually has nothing to do with men who love other men's wives, subjectively or objectively, or with women who love other women's husbands. It is only when they run away that my bill steps in. It is the running away that is the crime, and not the romance itself."

Senator Cooper still continues to receive huge stacks of letters from all parts of the world, most of which commend his bill, he said.

MAKES WILL AND DIES ON THE WAY TO HER CHILDREN

Realizing apparently that she had only a short time to live, Mrs. Augusta Fribans, 79, of 4225 North Sawyer avenue, carefully prepared her will in Los Angeles, where she was spending the winter. Then she boarded a train for Chicago, hoping to see her son and daughter.

But Mrs. Fribans was not to realize her hope. She died suddenly while her Chicago-bound train was speeding through Iowa early yesterday. The coroner at Marion, Ia., said she succumbed to heart disease. Last night her son, Paul Fribans, and his sister, Mrs. Lena Ghier, left for Marion to bring the body of their mother home.

A will dividing her property equally between her children was found among Mrs. Fribans' personal effects on the train. Mrs. Fribans had been a resident of Chicago since 1885.

WORLD OIL WAR OPENS AS EUROPE, U. S. KINGS SPLIT

Bare Rockefeller's Hand in Big Russia Deal.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Jan. 13.—One of the most bitter oil wars in history threatens as a result of a breakdown in the arrangements between three great oil combines for the purchase of Russian oil products from the Soviet government. The parties to the war are the Standard Oil group, represented in England by the Anglo-American Oil company and Vacuum company, the Royal Dutch Shell combine, and the Anglo-Persian Oil company, which is controlled by the British government.

A few days ago an agreement was reached and initiated by the Anglo-American company for the purchase of large quantities of Russian oil products. This contract contained a novel compensation provision for the former owners, whose land was expropriated by the Soviet officials, in which the purchasers undertook to pay five per cent of the value of the purchases to these owners. Practically, this meant only the small owners, as most of the claims are now in the hands of the big combines.

It was negotiated on the understanding that the Shell and Anglo-Persian interests were to participate, but at the last moment Sir Henri Deterding, head of the Royal Dutch Shell company, backed out, declaring that owing to the interference of the Soviets in China, it was not a proper time to make business arrangements with the Russian government.

Shell Starts Negotiations.

The history of the negotiations for the purchase of Russian oil is long and involved. It goes back to 1925, when the Shell group took the initiative in sending the late Col. "Klondyke" Boyle to Russia seeking concessions in the Russian oil fields. He began by buying all possible claims of the former owners. Standard Oil, hearing of this, also began buying, and secured a large share of the Nobel interests in Russia. Col. Boyle failed in his mission, and negotiations began in London between Sir Henri and Leonid Krasin, then envoy of the Russian government. They also failed. Shell then took up negotiations with Arco, the Russian government trading company in London, for a monopoly on the Russian oil products, and on April 8 an agreement was signed for the purchase of 200,000 tons of kerosene. Friends of the Standard Oil company point out that Sir Henri at that time was not so squeamish about buying "tainted goods."

Standard Oil Balks.

Shell also approached Standard Oil at that time to participate. The Standard Oil company refused, saying the time was not ripe. Shell, however, persisted in seeking cooperation and early in 1924 a group was formed to deal with Russia, consisting of Shell, Anglo-Persian, the Standard Oil company of New York, Standard Oil company of New Jersey, and the Vacuum Oil company of New York.

The first deal was made on Aug. 15, 1924, when the combine bought 75,000 tons of kerosene, of which the Shell company took 50 per cent and the balance was divided among the others.

After further negotiations another agreement was signed on Feb. 28, 1925, for 150,000 tons of kerosene and several smaller lots amounting to 60,000 tons.

During these negotiations one of Sir Henri's companies, the Asiatic Petroleum company, was in negotiation with the Russians, in competition. This was confirmed by a letter written on Jan. 22, 1925, by Davies & Newman, Ltd., the Asiatic Petroleum brokers, to the Naphtha syndicate of Russia, the Soviet marketing organization.

Standard Oil pursued the negotiations successfully, however, and Sir Henri started a campaign in America.

Boycott Russian Oil.

Then Sir Henri started a campaign to boycott Russian oil. The Standard and Vacuum oil companies, however, in December, 1925, began buying the tainted oil.

Sir Henri also tried to

START PETITION IN LEGISLATURE TO FREE M'CRAY

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Petitions asking President Coolidge to extend executive clemency to Warren T. McCray, former governor of Indiana, were circulated in the Indiana senate and house today for signatures.

The petition reads:

"The undersigned members of the Indiana state senate [Indiana house of representatives] hereby respectfully petition your excellency to extend executive clemency to Warren T. McCray, believing that the period of his servitude has been ample for the offense for which he was convicted."

McCray is serving a ten year sentence for using the mails to defraud. A bill seeking to abolish the state pardon board and giving the court from which a prisoner was sentenced the power to recommend a pardon or parole to the governor will be introduced in the senate by Carl M. Gray.

Mother! Now You Know How To Help Your Puny, Weak Child

It's Your Duty to Aid Him to Grow Strong, Active and Sound in Body and Mind.

That little boy or girl of yours—that doesn't weigh enough—that isn't strong—has no appetite—lacks vigor and is perhaps backward, listless and timid.

What are you going to do with him? Have you ever heard of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—sugar coated and as easy for ailing children to take as candy?

Every druggist in America sells them—60 tablets, 60 cents—and the supremely good combination of up-building agents surely does help the sickly, run down, puny, frail little ones.

No need to give him any more nasty Cod Liver Oil—McCoy's Tablets, rich in vitamins, are made to take the place of that good but evil smelling, stomach upsetting medicine, and they surely do.

Try them as directed for 30 days, mother, and if at the end of that time you are not delighted with the improvement in your dear little one, get your money back.

You can get them at your druggist and remember, too, they are fine for thin, run down, underweight men and women who need more flesh, strength, vigor and vitality. Demand McCoy's—the original and genuine. Ask for them at any WALGREEN DRUG STORES.

KNAPP-FELT HATS for MEN

THE Resolution is the appropriately named Knapp-Felt hat for the New Year. It is a good thing with which to start 1927—a year bright with promise which holds for every man the good things he really deserves. Good appearance will play an important part in achievement.

The Hat for January is the RESOLUTION

On Friday, the Fourteenth of January

the Resolution will be featured by the principal hatters throughout the United States. The shape, the colors and the trimmings are exclusive with this hat and will please the man who enjoys the new things while they are new. The quality is assured by seventy-five years' experience in making fine hats.

[Most of the better class of hatters feature Knapp-Felt hats and will be glad to show you the Resolution. Other Knapp-Felts from $8.00 to $40.00.]

U. S. FLAGSHIP REACHES CHINA; MARINES ON WAY

War at Shanghai in Few Weeks Expected.

BY JOHN POWELL

SHANGHAI, China, Jan. 13.—Admiral Clarence Williams, commander of the United States Asiatic squadron, arrived at Shanghai today from Manila on the flagship Pittsburgh, carrying several hundred sailors. The cruiser Huron will arrive soon from Manila with 300 marines to protect American lives and interests.

There are now twenty-one American naval vessels scattered along the Yangtze river between Shanghai and Hankow, a distance of 1,000 miles, as follows:

At Shanghai are the Pittsburgh, Huron, Sacramento, Asheville, Parrott, and John D. Ford; at Wuhu, the destroyer Sumner; at Kiangning, the gunboat Pygmy; at Hankow, the gunboat Ticonderoga; at Changsha, the gunboat Villalobos; at Ichang, the gunboat Sigbee; and at Chungking, the gunboat Winemaster.

In addition to the American fleet the British have in the same district sixteen warships, including four first class cruisers—the Enterprise, Dispatch, Victrola, and Carfax. The French force consists of eight warships, including the cruiser Jules Michel. The Japanese have ten warships, including the cruiser Tone, now at Shanghai.

The total foreign naval force in Shanghai harbor and the Yangtze river is fifty-eight vessels, with an estimated landing force of 5,000 men.

At Shanghai the surface was quiet today, but the smoldering unrest of the city is causing apprehension. It is likely that they will blow the lid off any day.

Four British 1,000 Blowers. Last night the police battled nearly a week, finally ejecting 1,000 rioting hordes from the British cotton mill, who were breaking up machinery. Today the employees of the street railway are striking due to the murder of a Chinese policeman by the agitators.

Although Marshal Sun Chuan-fang is holding his own in Chekiang province against the nationalist troops, it is believed that the war will be transferred to Shanghai and its environs before Feb. 1.

ARNOLD DALY, 51, FAMOUS ACTOR, BURNED TO DEATH

Began as Office Boy for Frohman.

(Picture on back page.) New York, Jan. 13.—(Special.)—In the fire swept ruin of his studio apartment in West 81st street, flames found this afternoon a charred body identified by two friends as that of Arnold Daly, 51, famous actor.

An old fashioned easy chair, burned to its frame, lay overturned beside the body.

It indicated that he had fought his way to the window, stumbled and fallen in the smothering smoke, and died while the flames roared half a dozen other occupants of the house.

Other Tenants Recused. Efforts also were made to reach Hyth Daly, the actor's daughter, herself an actress. His divorced wife, Mrs. Frank Craven, was notified at her home in Great Neck, L. I. Mr. Daly occupied the two room kitchenette and bath apartment alone. He had been in the city since he was released six weeks ago from the Metropolitan hospital, where he had been picked up unconscious and suffering from a fractured skull in Texas Guinan's night club.

College Never Appeared. Arnold Daly once said that he became an actor because as a boy he had seen so much bad acting himself that he knew he could not be any "worse" than those on the stage. He was born in Brooklyn on Oct. 4, 1875, and was graduated from the Sacred Heart academy. College did not appeal to his temperament, so he took a job as office boy with Charles Frohman.

LIKED IN CHICAGO. Arnold Daly, known to the Chicago stage almost as well as to the New York stage, is well remembered here for his many temperamental outbursts against his audiences and fellow actors.

Mr. Daly started in scores of plays given here during the last 25 years and found audiences of large number greeting him at each performance. These audiences, however, frequently failed to please the actor, and his often bitter lectures over the footlights were filled with scorn for those "who didn't appreciate good acting." Lack of appreciation, however, on the part of the audience to interpret puns, titling and other noises annoyed him, and he frequently stopped a play to tell his hearers just what he thought of them. His acting, however, won enthusiastic praise from his audiences.

WOMAN QUIZZED IN DEATH OF HER BROTHER, ORPHANS, BOTH DIE MYSTERIOUSLY.

Brothers, Orphans, Both Die Mysteriously.

Culver, Ind., Jan. 13.—(Special.)—Mrs. Emma Werner, age 48, shot herself to death today following a prolonged questioning yesterday by R. E. Johnson, coroner, concerning the death of Russell West, age 20, her ward, under mysterious circumstances Tuesday.

Mrs. Werner left a note, written in lead pencil on a scrap of paper. "Don't blame either (Mrs. Werner's son) for any of this, as he did not know a thing about it. — did it all," the note read. "He killed Russell, too. I know, for I seen him after it was done, and he will kill me now, so I will beat him to it. Forgive me all. Don't let any one see my body. Have a private funeral.—Emma J. Werner."

Russell West, with his brother, Ralph, had been taken from the orphan's home at Plymouth by Mrs. Werner, who took out a $1,000 insurance policy on each. Ralph died in September and the insurance was collected by Mrs. Werner as guardian.

Tuesday Russell was found dead at the foot of a stairway. The coroner's investigation revealed no injuries which could have caused death, but there was a bottle of arsenic in the youth's clothing.

MORE TREMBLORS ROCK CALIFORNIA BORDER TOWNS. Brawley, Cal., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Two sharp earthquake shocks were felt here this morning at 3 o'clock. No damage was reported.

Heavy Shock at Calexico. Calexico, Cal., Jan. 13.—(AP)—A heavy earthquake shock here early today shook windows and rattled dishes, but did no serious damage. A number of residents rushed from their homes. The shock was followed by a series of lighter vibrations lasting several seconds. Three minor tremors also were felt earlier.

Reports here said that the shock early today, described as the heaviest since the major earthquake disturbance on Jan. 1, which caused serious damage here and in Mexico, across the international border, also was felt in El Centro.

PROMINENT MEN MADE MEMBERS OF CRIME BODY

As the first step in enlarging its activities, the Chicago crime commission yesterday added fifteen names to its membership. Officers and directors also were elected at the commission's eighth annual meeting at the Union League club. The new members are:

John J. Mitchell, president, Illinois Merchants' bank; Earl E. Reynolds, president, People's Trust and Savings bank; Abner J. Stillwell, vice president, Continental and Commercial National bank; Melvin A. Drayler, president, First National bank; Frederick H. Rawson, president, Union Trust company; Nelson L. Buck, vice president, William W. Leary Jr. company; Charles F. Anderson, Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company; F. B. Ernst, assistant vice president, American Steel Foundries; Frederick C. Hack, attorney.

Actual laboratory tests prove Northern Tissue as sanitary as sealed hospital cotton

TODAY a sterilized Bathroom Paper is available to you. A paper as soft and white and sanitary as sealed hospital cotton—that offers you and your family new hygienic protection at no added cost.

A safeguard to your health. Modern medical science has traced many ills to careless hygienic methods of our everyday life. Seemingly trivial things that often endanger your health.

That is why Physicians and Surgeons everywhere recommend this sterilized Bathroom Paper. Why it is used in hospitals throughout the United States. Why foremost authorities urge Northern Tissue as a precautionary step—to safeguard health.

Made by an exclusive process. Northern Tissue is sterilized 20 times in manufacture by our own process. Thus every roll comes to you clean and sterile.

A cultural test of this Bathroom Paper, conducted by the nationally known Columbus Laboratories, proved it to be as sanitary as sealed hospital cotton.

Why take chances?

Now you do not have to use common fibrous toilet paper, to which Doctors attribute many rectal troubles. Such as Pruritus Ani.

Order Northern Tissue today from your dealer. Note its snow-white color, its fine firm texture, its down-like softness and absorbency. And remember—every sheet is sterilized. The price is no more than you pay for ordinary toilet paper.

IRON POLICE LAW SPEEDS FASCIST WAR ON CRIME

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

ROME, Jan. 13.—The new drastic police regulations embodied in the "Fascist act," which has been approved by the Italian council of ministers, are now ready for application throughout Italy.

The regulations call for the reform of the police force, with the dismissal of all inefficient elements; and provide that the Fascist militia is to be used as frontier police, political police, and for patrolling the penal colonies and that persons with criminal records must carry identification cards, and four photographs' prints.

places where drinks are sold will be under the close jurisdiction of the police. Janitors, doorkeepers and guardians of buildings must give evidence of their morality and prove that they will cooperate with the police in law enforcement.

Infections and social diseases must be reported immediately to the police by the physicians attending the cases; soliciting on public streets is prohibited; clandestine houses of assignation are abolished and only licensed brothels will be permitted to function, under the closest supervision.

The new law also provides material aids for the police to enable them to cope with any situation.

Minister of Justice Alfredo Rocco recommends speedy justice in criminal cases and doing away with the morbid sentimentality which tends to assist the criminals at the expense of the victims. The minister says where there is prima facie evidence of guilt and there is no chance of judicial error, punishment should follow the crime immediately. Thus the delays due to medical and mental examinations would be avoided. Generally such examinations only serve to hinder and even prevent the administration of justice.

SEES U. S. LIQUOR COMPANY MAKE BOOTLEGGER RICH

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(Special.)—Bootleggers who see their present day profits as only nominal in proportion to the harvest they may reap if the Andrews medicinal liquor corporation bill is passed are among the most enthusiastic supporters of the measure, according to spokesmen for the National Retail Druggists' association, who appeared before the house ways and means committee.

The Andrews' plan would create a quasi-federal corporation to control the manufacture and distribution of medicinal spirits, which would finance its operations to purchase existing stocks and produce new stores by the issuance of several classes of securities.

Inevitably, it was argued by attorneys for the druggists, the securities would find their way into the hands of "rich bootleggers," who would quickly see the advantage in a monopoly sanctioned by the government, and eventually they will control the only legitimate sources of liquor.

BALM PLEA OF WOMAN, 60, IS DENIED BY JURY

Mrs. Freda Mierow, 60 years old, 128 15th street, Melrose Park, asked a jury in Judge Michael McKinley's court yesterday to order her wealthy employer, Frederick Wisting, 61 years old, to pay her $50,000 for breach of promise to marry. After Wisting and his former housekeeper had a long argument in court the jury decided she was not entitled to damages.

Mrs. Mierow said Wisting employed her to keep house for him in January, 1925. After she had cooked for him a week he proposed marriage and she accepted, she testified. But Wisting postponed the marriage several times and finally hired another housekeeper and married her, she told the jury.

But Wisting, a little man, weighing about 130 pounds, told another story. His voice quavered with emotion as he told how he had enjoyed life until Mrs. Mierow, a sprightly, though heavy woman, came into his life.

"I didn't want a housekeeper. My daughter took care of me," he said. "But Mrs. Mierow insisted I needed some one else, so I hired her."

OHIO PUBLISHER KILLED BY FALL FROM BUILDING

Columbus, O., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Robert F. Wolfe, 68, publisher of the Columbus Dispatch and the Ohio State Journal, was killed at 11:35 a. m. today when he fell from the roof of the Dispatch building to the street below. He had gone to the roof of the building and apparently became dizzy and toppled over to the street, five stories below.

Mr. Wolfe, who had not been well for several days, had been in the office of William A. Ireland, cartoonist, only a few minutes before the tragedy. He left Mr. Ireland's office and went to his own. It is supposed he walked from his office to the roof of the building to take the air. He was said to have done this frequently. Only a low railing surrounded the terrace on which Mr. Wolfe apparently had been walking.

In addition to being a publisher, Mr. Wolfe was a banker and shoe manufacturer.

PRESENT SIDE OF GOVERNMENT IN FURNITURE TRIAL

Special Assistant Attorney General Roger Shale yesterday opened the government's side of the trial in which seventy-nine furniture manufacturers and sixty-six individuals are accused of forming a combination in restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Mr. Shale spent the greater part of the day in Federal Judge George A. Carpenter's court in reading documentary evidence which the government charges revealed the plot of the defendants to control furniture prices. It was said at the outset of the government presentation that the trial probably will consume three weeks.

SIMPSON TAKES STAND AGAINST LEITER IN SUIT

Countess Smiles and Joe Frowns at Testimony.

James Simpson, president of Marshall Field & Co., testified yesterday in the suit of Lady Margaret Hyde, the Countess of Suffolk, who is asking $200,000 for her brother, Joseph Leiter, as executor of the $200,000,000 estate of which he is heir.

As Mr. Simpson offered evidence in direct contradiction of Leiter's testimony, Lady Suffolk smiled and Joseph Leiter frowned. Both paid close attention to the testimony of the witness.

Leiter leaned forward, cupping his hand behind his ear and his tilted hat took a few notes.

Testimony on Leiter Building. The testimony was in regard to the Leiter building at State and Van Buren streets, which is one of the most important single pieces of property in the city. After the failure of Siegel & Co. in 1916, the building remained empty for years, due to mismanagement by Leiter, according to the sister's charges.

Leiter explained this by saying that he did everything in his power to get the building. He admitted that Marshall Field & Co. had made an offer to lease the property, but he refused it because it was "ridiculous."

The Field offer, Leiter said, stipulated free rent for one year, 1 per cent of the gross returns or $100,000 for the next four years, with a $25,000 increase in the annual rental at five-year intervals thereafter.

But Mr. Simpson said he offered Leiter 3 per cent of the gross returns for the first two years with a minimum rental of $150,000 a year and 2 per cent of the gross receipts for the following three years. After the first five years, he offered to pay the 3 per cent of the gross receipts with a minimum of $200,000 a year and a maximum of $300,000.

The witness also contradicted Leiter's testimony in regard to an offer to purchase the merchandise of Siegel & Co. Leiter testified that the offer was made by his own appraisers.

Tells of Appraisal Offer. "I offered to have my appraisers price on the stock and submit to the Leiter estate," Mr. Simpson said. "If Mr. Leiter found this un-

THIRD STRONG BIDDER FOR AIR MAIL SERVICE, NEW YORK TO CHICAGO

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Airplane transportation has progressed to the point where there is strong competition to obtain contracts. Today it was announced that the Colonial Air Transport company, of which Maj. Gen. John J. O'Rourke is president, will bid for the New York-Chicago mail contract, making the third strong bidder for this important route.

The other bidders are the National Air Transport, which announced that it would fly the route with express mail service, and the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Air Service, controlled by the Mitten interests.

The National Air Transport is backed by Henry Ford and western capital, and the Colonial Air Transport has behind it influential figures in New England, including Gov. John H. Trumbull, who is a director.

COSMANO PUT IN CELL TO AWAIT HIS DEPORTATION

While Capt. Hal Carr, chief deputy United States marshal, yesterday was awaiting the surrender of Vincenzo Cosmano on a deportation warrant word reached the federal building that Cosmano had been locked up in the Waukegan jail to await a deportation party which will take him to his native Italy.

Cosmano, erstwhile pal of Big Tim Murphy in the latter's former labor activities and sentenced to Leavenworth penitentiary for his connection with the Dearborn station mail robbery case, has been a resident of Chicago for many years, and had he restrained himself from taking a trip to Italy while awaiting decision on an appeal in the mail robbery case would not have been a subject for deportation.

Cosmano also contradicted Leiter's testimony in regard to an offer to purchase the merchandise of Siegel & Co. Leiter testified that the offer was made by his own appraisers.

Tells of Appraisal Offer. "I offered to have my appraisers price on the stock and submit to the Leiter estate," Mr. Simpson said. "If Mr. Leiter found this un-

BUILD SAFETY INTO HIGHWAYS, CLOSING ADVICE

Road Makers' Chief Asks Uniform Traffic Rules.

"Roads must be to this nation what arteries are to the human body—perfect in function, fast growing and free from all disease or injury by accidents. Upon the American Road Builders' association rests the burden of making this nation's arteries perfect." That was the parting message yesterday of President H. G. Shirley to the more than 30,000 road builders who attended their 24th annual convention here.

Urges Traffic Regulation. Their tasks this year consist not only of building roads but also of building safety into them, he said. So the delegates were told to push bills before many state legislatures for uniform regulation of traffic.

"Passage of uniform traffic laws by the states will cut traffic accidents almost in two," Mr. Shirley declared. "Building roads properly, the other part of our job, will tend to cause another big reduction. If we ap-

BRUNDAGE AND DENEEN TO WORK FOR LITSINGER

Edward R. Litsinger headquarters announced yesterday that when a series of big mass meetings for its mayoralty campaign begins on Feb. 1 both Senator Charles S. Deneen and Edward J. Brundage, the big leaders of this group, will appear on the platform.

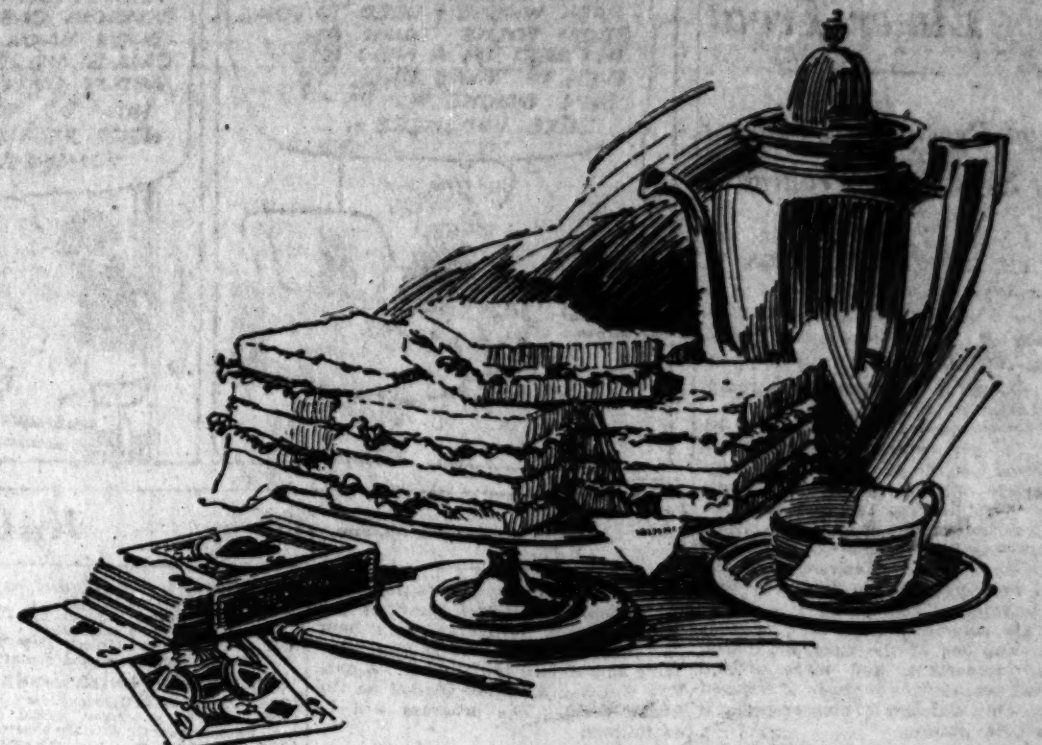

In the meantime Mr. Litsinger will make the round of the fifty wards of the city.

"In all his speeches," read a headquarters statement, "the Litsinger line of attack will be made directly upon William Hale Thompson and his chief sponsor, State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe. The Litsinger board of strategy believes that Thompson cannot carry Crowe through a six weeks' campaign."

A Perfect Ending to a Delightful Evening

PABST-ETT sandwiches, served at the climax of an evening at cards, will give your guests a new idea of how rich and delicious sandwiches can be.

Pabst-ett is made by a new process that retains the nutritive value of whole milk—conserves the milk sugar, proteins and body-building mineral elements formerly lost in cheese-making. It can be eaten freely without thought of the unpleasant after-effects which many people believe come from cheese-eating. It is so easily digestible that anyone—even children—may eat it to their heart's content.

Use Pabst-ett for salads, sandwiches, and as a spread for bread and crackers. It is wholesome, satisfying and delicious. Order today from your grocer.

Pabst-ett Not Successfully Imitated

The popularity and remarkable success of Pabst-ett will, no doubt, bring out imitations. But, Pabst-ett is the original. Others may imitate, but they cannot duplicate Pabst-ett. Even were the formula not secret, few manufacturers of ordinary cheese products have facilities and equipment to produce this remarkable, new food. Avoid imitations. Leading dealers everywhere sell Pabst-ett. Ask for it by name.

Sleepless with Pain of Rheumatism

Now can sleep—do her work

"I could not sleep or do my work, but now I sleep well, walk and do my work with ease. I used Sloan's Liniment only once and it relieved me of my pain. It is just wonderful!"

This letter is typical of thousands testifying to the amazing relief that Sloan's gives to every kind of muscular pain. Sloan's gives real relief because it doesn't just deaden the nerves. It stirs up the bodily forces to get rid of the trouble that is causing the pain.

No need to rub. It's the medicine itself that does the work. Just pat it on. Instantly it sends the fresh healing blood tingling through the sick tissues—and the pain simply has to go. So clean and easy to use, too. Get a bottle. All drug-gists—35 cents. Dr. Earl S. Sloan, 113 W. 18th St., New York.

Stock and His Orchestra Give Elmer Treat

Much Praise for Broadcast of Symphony Program.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.
Applause and congratulations: The Chicago Symphony orchestra, Frederick Stock conducting, burst upon the air last night with its popular concert at Orchestra hall, through WMAQ, 8:15 to 10:15.

This included a brief radio talk by Mr. Stock in which he expressed his concern lest the snow-laden air might interfere with reception of the concert. A telegram followed from an enthusiastic citizen of Middleton, Colo., expressing his joy at hearing the Chicago Symphony orchestra on the air, and stating that the reception was surprisingly clear.

This column proudly asserts that this was one of the most successful, most important, and most artistic broadcasts that have yet been heard through a Chicago station, or perhaps any other station.

I was surprised how clear and easy following this orchestra music came in, whether the tones were simple and pianissimo or complex and fortissimo.

The program was rather a stiff one for a typical popular concert. The concert in this respect was the opening number, Nicolai's overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor," which was a lovely thing, and the final number, Beethoven's "Symphony No. 9," which was the only number that taxed the gathering powers of the microphone.

The attractive number par excellence was the selection from Bach's Suite No. 4, and if the sky didn't open up and the heavenly orchestra play this, with Bach himself conducting, my imagination played false with me.

The strictly classical number was Mozart's "Jupiter" symphony—Mozart in the midst of great musical glory, dignity and joyfulness. It was a rare privilege to hear tones as we hear them here—playful, gracious, entrancing, now soft and lovely, now loud and angry, but such happy.

The program's novelty was Glazunov's "Sonata for Violin" in eight strongly diversified pieces. The sprightliness and the marked oriental coloring in this work kept one interested every minute; and marveling every minute at the beauty being unveiled.

Broadcasts like this will open up new, broad vistas like this give us and the boy and girl, the man and woman, in this and other cities and in the snow-bound country musical treats beyond our most beautiful dreams.

George R. Wood, Drug Co. Official, Taken by Death
George R. Wood, 55 years old, of 1419 Summerfield avenue, secretary and treasurer of the MacLean Drug company, died yesterday at Wesley Memorial hospital of an infection of the throat. He became ill suddenly while at his desk Saturday and was taken to the hospital on Tuesday. He is survived by a widow and two sons. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. in Rosehill cemetery chapel.

Receivership Bill Is Filed Against $1,300,000 Bond Co.
Receivership proceedings against the Bond and Mortgage company, a $1,300,000 corporation, were started in the Circuit court yesterday by Philip S. Blanchard and four other stockholders, who charged that assets are being dissipated. George H. Caldwell, president of the company, is in New York. Mr. E. E. Zillwood, vice president, is attending to another business, and other officers are not paying much attention to the concern, the bill charged.

Kick of Flivver Crank May Cost Policeman Life

On Dec. 27 Policeman Edward J. Halloran cranked a flivver in front of the Sheffield avenue station. The crank kicked back and bruised his left arm. The injury did not appear serious until a week ago, when blood poisoning developed. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital and yesterday the arm was amputated, but physicians feared they would not be able to save Halloran's life.

Baroness Wrangel Again Is Guest Here of Potter Palmers

By Nancy R.

The Baroness Olga Wrangel has kept her promise of two years ago and returned to make Chicago another visit. Now, as then, she is the guest of the Potter Palmers, whose handsome mansion has sheltered a constant stream of interesting visitors long before and ever since the Russian revolution.

Today contains a round of payoffs for this distinguished visitor. There is a luncheon at the Pottery Palmers, and later in the afternoon a tea at the home of Mrs. Charles Denby. The Baroness will be the guest of the latter party at the dinner party the William R. Odell is giving before the assembly, at which fashionable and of those delightful, intimate teas before the fire in their hospitable house at 1006 North La Salle street.

The Baroness arrived in town yesterday, the first engagement on her rapidly filling calendar being a luncheon at the Pottery Palmers, and later in the afternoon a tea at the home of Mrs. Charles Denby. The Baroness will be the guest of the latter party at the dinner party the William R. Odell is giving before the assembly, at which fashionable and of those delightful, intimate teas before the fire in their hospitable house at 1006 North La Salle street.

Tomorrow Mrs. Harold Howard is having a luncheon for the baroness, and a double box party at the opera. On Sunday the Palmers are having one of their charming large teas for her, and on Monday Mrs. William Prescott Hunt and her sister, Miss Marie Rose, have invited a group of their friends to a luncheon at the home of the latter, at which the baroness will be the guest of honor.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(Special.)—The speaker of the house of representatives and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont at dinner tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Denby had a small company at luncheon today for Miss Florence Lowden, daughter of the former governor of Illinois, who has spent a fortnight with Mrs. John W. Dwight, wife of a former representative from New York. The others in the company were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Winkler, Miss Phyllis Cochran of Philadelphia, Coleman Jennings, son of the late Hennen Jennings, and James Orr Denby, son of the hostess, who is here on vacation from the legislature in Greece before going to his new post of duty as secretary of legislation in Nebraska.

Miss Lowden accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Dwight to the reception in the White House this evening, given by President and Mrs. Coolidge for the judiciary.

Representative Frank Reid of Aurora had a little company at luncheon today for Mrs. John Mason and Miss Ann Forsyth, both of Aurora. Mrs. Mason is attending the meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs officers, and Miss Forsyth is attending the conference of the women of the national Republican committee.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Jan. 13.—(Special.)—Princess and Princessa Serge Obolensky and their son, Ivan, will start abroad tomorrow at midnight on the Cunard or Aquitania, accompanied by Vincent Astor.

Mrs. William A. Rockefeller announces postponement to Feb. 15 of the Fresh Air House dance at Mayfield House.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin are due to arrive from Europe on Jan. 15. Mrs. Frederick T. Frelinghuysen, who has an apartment at the Ambassador, has gone to Palm Beach.

UNITED LUTHERANS SPEND $1 MILLION ON 1926 BUILDING

Congregations of the United Lutheran church in America have spent nearly $1,000,000 during the 1926 for new property, additions, and renovations, according to reports made to the Lutheran church weekly magazine. A questionnaire mailed by the editor, Dr. Nathan R. Melhorn, to 2,500 pastors of the church showed that 841 congregations had improved or added to their property during the course of the year to the extent of $4,854,835.

Of the new church edifices sixteen are in Illinois, six being in Chicago or suburbs.

Extend Trans-Atlantic Phone Calls to N. Y. State

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Telephone service across the Atlantic, available for the last week to subscribers within the metropolitan areas of London and New York, will be extended Saturday morning to all points between New York state, it was announced today.

Service Club Meeting

The Kenwood Social Service club announced a meeting this morning at the residence of Mrs. E. M. McKeon, 4009 Greenwood avenue.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Dean of Cleveland, O., announce the engagement of their daughter, Gertrude, to H. Ross Foulson of Chicago. Mr. Foulson is a graduate of Cornell university and is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Maria S. Foulson of East-Orange, N. J.

Mrs. H. Smith Jaekel of New York City announces the engagement of her daughter, Dorothy, to John Frederick Hamilton, son of Mrs. George J. Hamilton and the late Mr. Hamilton of Chicago and New York City. Miss Jaekel attended Mrs. Fitch's school and Mr. Hamilton was graduated from Princeton in 1925.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Dorothy's daddy is exceedingly impatient of interruptions when reading his morning paper and freely expresses his displeasure at unnecessary noise. Last Sunday Dorothy was given the "funnies," as usual, and seated herself on her little chair, prepared to follow Skeels's adventures, pictorially. At this moment, however, baby brother decided to register his displeasure at things in general and his shrieks rent the air. Dorothy threw aside her paper and said disgustedly, "I should think brother could keep still long enough to let me read my Sunday paper in peace." Mrs. J. R.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Alexander of 6841 Davis avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, May Woods, to Robert Reed McKenzie.

Box Circle Crowded to Capacity to Hear "Don Giovanni" Sang

"Don Giovanni" was played to a full house last night at the Auditorium, and the box circle was crowded.

The usual intermission pre-occupation of glancing at one's neighbors' acquaintances across the theater was hindered, however, by the dim illumination afforded during the intermissions by the dark blue lights.

Mrs. Joseph B. Long's guests included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hackett, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Henry Little, and Richard Prendergast. With Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick were Mr. and Mrs. James B. Forgan Jr. and Edwin Krenn.

Guests of Miss Elizabeth McCormick were Mr. and Mrs. John H. Winterbotham, Robert Eskridge, and Arthur Moskey Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schubert had with them in the Charles H. Morse box Miss Joan Stuart, Miss Mary Ingels, Alexander Knott, and Lambert Mullin.

With Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pratt Judson were Mr. and Mrs. William Burton and Mr. and Mrs. Tracy C. Drake. The Drakes, who have recently returned from Paris, had entertained the group at dinner prior to the opera.

Mrs. Theodore J. Pelikan, Miss Helen Pelikan, John Hawks, and John W. Gregg were occupying the Chauncey J. McCormick's box. With Mrs. Walker Borden were Miss Ellen Borden, Miss Grace McDane, Adlai Stevenson, and Col. George Voodvokas.

TRIBUTE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Parasoup Soups.

A tin of vittles parsnips in a grocery store gets on my nerves, yet I see such constantly all during the winter. I wonder if one cannot teach the trade how to care for this vegetable. I suppose it is not, in fact, a vegetable, but a root.

The parsnip would not stock up with it, at all. But since it is inexpensive, it ought to be more used by the housewife, particularly on the days when she would like to use also the expensive winter tomatoes or cucumbers or such vegetables because they are so bright and fresh—so refreshing and such good builders of appetite.

A parsnip soup may be made to look like one of the expensive and troublesome chowders, but it is really a soup with a characteristic flavor of its own that people can grow to like, if they do not at the start. One soup may be made thus: For each quart of soup, measure a cup of soup allow one good sized parsnip, one cup of hot milk, half a raw carrot grated or put through the food chopper, seasonings of salt, etc. Wash, peel, cut up and cook the parsnip until tender enough to mash or sieve. Add hot milk, raw carrot, and seasonings, which may include a little butter, and cook together a few minutes. Serve in cups with a little whipped cream if you choose. With crackers this soup, and a salad, and dessert are enough for a pretty and a rather exceptional luncheon.

Or make another of these cream of parsnip soups as follows: Scrape and pare a pound of parsnips, cut in slices, have them dry and dust them with flour and then saute them in butter until they are a light brown on both sides. Add about a quart of boiling water and cook until tender, then put through a strainer, heat up with salt and pepper, and a little butter, with a cup or more of milk and cream, to make of the desired consistency. Serve with a garnish of whipped cream or with a little grated carrot over the top.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Dean of Cleveland, O., announce the engagement of their daughter, Gertrude, to H. Ross Foulson of Chicago. Mr. Foulson is a graduate of Cornell university and is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Maria S. Foulson of East-Orange, N. J.

Mrs. H. Smith Jaekel of New York City announces the engagement of her daughter, Dorothy, to John Frederick Hamilton, son of Mrs. George J. Hamilton and the late Mr. Hamilton of Chicago and New York City. Miss Jaekel attended Mrs. Fitch's school and Mr. Hamilton was graduated from Princeton in 1925.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Dorothy's daddy is exceedingly impatient of interruptions when reading his morning paper and freely expresses his displeasure at unnecessary noise. Last Sunday Dorothy was given the "funnies," as usual, and seated herself on her little chair, prepared to follow Skeels's adventures, pictorially. At this moment, however, baby brother decided to register his displeasure at things in general and his shrieks rent the air. Dorothy threw aside her paper and said disgustedly, "I should think brother could keep still long enough to let me read my Sunday paper in peace." Mrs. J. R.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred); wrap it carefully for each number, and address your order to Clotilde, CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE.

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. They are perfect in fit, up to date in style, and the easiest of all patterns to use.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—We are decidedly biased in favor of this frock. For nothing proves us so much as a made as a clever arrangement of fine tuckings. Often the costume designed for morning or sports wear, nowadays depend altogether for individuality on just this trimming detail. Tucked panels and insets, often on the bias, frequently give a dress that required air of being decorated without further ornamentation.

Extremely trim and tailored is the model we are showing above. It is one of those general utility frocks which every woman needs. Perhaps especially suitable in it for the business woman who wishes to wear something very severe to her office and yet something smart enough for the luncheon engagement at exclusive club or hotel.

Developed in kasha cloth of a gray blue shade it sponsors a one piece cut belted almost at the natural waist line. The blouse is plain with tight sleeves and a boyish turn-down collar of self material. Its lower section, both back and front, is ornamented by fine tuckings in diagonal lines. The skirt, made with one box pleat directly in front, flanked by two other pleats, repeats by means of three tucks on each side at the top the geometric effect.

SAYS ST. LOUIS COULD NOT HELP GROWING IF IT TRIED

Turns Spot Light on Metropolis of Middle West.

In the January issue of World's Work, French Brothers give this interesting pen picture of the new St. Louis, its progress and prosperity.

"Before the railroad came, St. Louis occupied a unique strategic position. Built beside the Father of Waters, just below the mouth of the Missouri River and not far above the mouth of the Ohio, it took toll of traffic from Pittsburg to the Rockies, and from St. Paul to New Orleans. This advantage is reflected in the fact that St. Louis is still the largest market in the world for hardwood lumber and for pine, the finest of the softwoods.

"When steel rails eclipsed the rivers as the carriers of commerce, St. Louis soon became what it still is, the railroad center of America. Not in the number of trains nor in the tonnage of freight; but St. Louis is the terminus of more important railroads than any other city. Twenty-eight lines start there, spreading east, west, south and north, and reaching to New York, San Francisco, Chicago, New Orleans and El Paso. Trade flowed along these arteries, as along the earlier routes of trail and river, until St. Louis became the commercial metropolis of the wider regions.

"St. Louis' Commercial Advantages. St. Louis with its unrivaled transportation facilities, with endless coal available just across the river in Illinois, with a mountain of iron ore only 60 miles distant in Missouri, with fur and hides and lumber and wheat and clay pouring into its markets, rapidly developed its natural opportunities until today it has the largest industrial factories in the world for the manufacture of the following products: shoes, drugs, bricks, terra cotta, tobacco, macaroni, glassware, stoves, ranges and street cars.

"And so well has St. Louis developed its combined manufacturing and commercial advantages that it can claim to be the largest market in the world for woodenware, hardware, furnaces, stoves and ranges, raw fur, boots and shoes, horses and mules, hardwood and pine, and sugar mill machinery. Likewise, it claims to be the largest market in the United States for beans, carriages, coffins, chemicals, doors, drugs, hats, hosiery, lumber, millinery, saddlery, cash, trunks, wool and open-hearth steel castings.

"St. Louis' Municipal Improvements. The war interrupted plans for wholesale municipal improvements but as soon as it was over, a campaign to effect it was got under way.

"After months of investigation and public discussion, a consolidated program was offered to the public. This took the form of twenty-one proposed bond issues, aggregating $18,712,600. These are worth reviewing, both to show the variety of the projects, the imagination and boldness of the plan, and especially the intelligent discrimination of the public, which voted in favor of twenty of the proposals.

"Two improvements, assured under this program, will give St. Louis an almost unique attraction among major cities of the country. These are the Community Center and the Station Plaza. The former is a colossal undertaking. It involves the tearing out of two business blocks in the heart of the downtown section, turning them into a great plaza around which will be grouped the new Courthouse (costing $4,000,000 and now under construction), the new War Memorial Museum Building (costing with the plaza, $4,000,000), the present Public Library, and the several other public buildings in the Plaza group. The Plaza will permit open-air gatherings of a hundred thousand people in the business heart of the city upon great occasions, surrounded by a group of splendid buildings that evidence their community wealth and spirit.

"Spendings Hundreds of Millions. Simultaneously with this expenditure of public funds, and to some extent stimulated by it, private enterprises are in process of spending some aggregating approximately $100,000,000 upon extensions and betterments. Notable among these is the new building of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., which, towering 260 feet above the street level, becomes the outstanding physical landmark of the city, and with its glittering white terra cotta finish and its receding tower effect in the New York manner sets a fashion of architectural effectiveness for the future.

"Industrially, one of the most interesting developments in St. Louis is the growth of a steel industry which, already of some consequence in the art of steel casting, promises to become an outstanding factor in the general steel business of the country. Recent practical tests of plants costing tens of millions of dollars have demonstrated the success of a new process of rolling Illinois coal for blast furnaces, so that the once little-regarded soft coals of the enormous nearby veins are now definitely available for use in the manufacture of iron and steel. Optimists claim a future comparable to that of Birmingham for St. Louis in the steel business.

"The manufacture of boots and shoes is, however, still the city's greatest industry. Nevertheless, large as it looms in St. Louis, only 8 per cent of the city's workers are employed in the shoe industry. Five other industries in St. Louis have each a yearly output in excess of $100,000,000, so that diversity of production is an outstanding characteristic of the city's economic structure. This is one reason why, while St. Louis has never had a boom, it has never, on the other hand, had a heavy depression. To St. Louis the present is prosperous, and the future looks golden."

Buying Power
of The BILLIONAREA

Selling Power
of The BILLIONAREA

A Selling Power that reaches the Buying Power!

The Billionarea is one of America's greatest market opportunities for advertisers. To qualify for that distinction, a market must measure up to the very highest standard in more ways than one.

There are a few other major markets which, like The Billionarea, are great enough in size to provide volume consumption for any product. There are one or two such great metropolitan markets where average family buying power is unusually high, as in The Billionarea.

But nowhere else is there so great a market, so rich a market, so complete a market, that is so completely reached and swayed by one great newspaper! This combination is

The only accurate measure of a market opportunity for advertisers

For the advertiser, the volume-size of a market and the volume of sales in a market are largely controlled by the proportion of newspaper coverage to the total families in that market.

The proportion of newspaper coverage in The Billion-area by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch is not only far greater than that of any other St. Louis newspaper, but greater than any other newspaper in any other metropolitan city with few, if any exceptions.

Because of this, The Billionarea can be Completely covered at a lower advertising cost than other major markets

Through the Post-Dispatch—a powerful advertising medium—with its one low advertising cost, you can reach and sway the entire Billionarea.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch reaches practically every family of purchasing consequence in The Billionarea—having 30,000 more circulation daily—80,000 more Sunday than any other St. Louis newspaper.

Because advertisers have learned from experience that this great concentration within the true St. Louis market is most effective for them, they place far more advertising in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch than in the second and third St. Louis newspapers combined.

CHICAGO STOCK TRANSACTIONS

Thursday, Jan. 13, 1927.

Chicago stocks were more active and steady than Wednesday.

The principal exception was Electric Household Utilities, which sold down 1 1/2 to 12 in the last half hour of trading.

Three months ago the dividend was paid in stock on the basis of $20 a share. In the quarter prior to that the dividend was paid half in cash and half in stock. The directors issued a statement which read that the dividend payment is being withheld to permit the management to have working capital necessary to carry out an enlarged sales program. They added that, as of Jan. 1, the company had no bills outstanding. Evans B closed 1 1/2 higher to 2 1/2, while the A stock advanced 1/4. Vestal Battery gained 1/4 to 30 1/2 and Fair common was up 1/4 to 27. Standard Oil of New Jersey was traded in to the extent of about 1,500 shares and closed a point higher to 3 1/2. Auburn Automobile advanced 1/4 and Central and Southwest Utilities gained 1/4. U. S. Gypsum sold down a point to 10 1/2.

On small sales, gains were: Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee and Kraft Cheese, 2 points each; Fair Preferred,

1 1/2; Illinois Northern Utilities, a point. Great Lakes Dredge was down a point.

WHEAT PRICES EASE ON HEAVY PROFIT TAKING

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Heavy profit taking developed on all bulges in wheat, and while there was aggressive buying, and also an enhancement in the outside trade, prices dropped 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ from the early high, only to rally again toward the last and closed unchanged to 1/2¢ lower. May was $1.30 1/2¢; July, $1.25 1/2¢; September, $1.20 1/2¢. Corn gained 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ with May $1.14 1/2¢, July $1.04 1/2¢, and September, $1.04 1/2¢. Oats were unchanged to 1/2¢ lower with May $1.04 1/2¢ and July $1.04 1/2¢, while rye was unchanged to 1/2¢ lower with May $1.02 1/2¢ and July $1.02 1/2¢.

Commission houses and local traders were free sellers of May wheat on all upturns above $1.40 for the May, while commission houses were active buyers at $1.39 1/2¢ and under, tending to restrict fluctuations, and the trade was much larger than indicated by the range of prices. Undersides were relatively firm the greater part of the day, with bulls showing more confidence than for some time, although there was little in the general run of news that attracted attention. Domestic situation, however, is regarded as growing stronger.

Argentine Wheat Cheaper.
Some of the pit element who have been on the bear side of late were buyers of May around $1.40, and there was also further short covering. Houses with outside market connections were on the selling side. Minneapolis and the southwest held ground as compared with the local market. Foreigners refused to follow the upturn in futures, and export sales in all positions were finally estimated at 200,000 bu. Private cables said the United Kingdom bought Argentine wheat for February shipment at equal to 15¢ per bu under an American parity.

Buenos Aires wheat market was weak and 1/2¢ lower at the close, with weather favorable. Exports from Argentina the week were estimated at 2,072,000 bu, compared with 725,000 bu the previous week and 497,000 bu last year. Liverpool closed 1/2¢ higher, the strength in America being a factor, while Winnipeg was off 1/4¢.

Corn Movement Checked.

Heavy movements over the corn belt are expected to delay the movement of cash grain in the interior, and country offerings were limited, while the shipping demand showed some improvement. Local traders were aggressive buyers early and May advanced to $1.14 1/2¢, a new high on the present movement, but selling against export and profit taking brought a fair reaction. Spot basis was steady to 1/2¢ higher, with receipts 190 cars.

Action of the oats market was a reflection of that in corn, with trade light and largely local. Rye again showed independent strength, with the seaboard after cash rye at numerous points in the west and northwest, and some sales were said to have been made to go to the Gulf in the southwest. Advance in prices has checked export business to some extent, with sales at the seaboard finally estimated at 75,000 bu.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Foreign demand for cash wheat was somewhat less aggressive, with sales in all positions estimated at 200,000 bu, including some hard winter via the Gulf at 10 1/2¢ over Chicago May. Rye sales were 72,000 bu. Exports were credited with having bought 650,000 bu rye in all positions on Wednesday.

Chicago handlers sold 15,000 bu wheat, 50,000 bu corn, 50,000 bu oats, and 4,000 bu barley to the domestic trade. Deliveries on January contracts aggregated 30,000 bu wheat and 50,000 bu corn.

Cash wheat basis here was unchanged. Offerings were small and largely of off grades. No. 2 red was nominally 1 1/2¢ under and No. 3 red 4 1/2¢ under, with No. 2 hard 4 1/2¢ over and No. 3 hard 5 1/2¢ over to 4¢ under May. At St. Louis the basis on red winter was 1/2¢ higher, while Kansas City was unchanged. Spring wheat at Minneapolis was in good demand, with heavy dry grain taken readily, while other kinds were slightly easier. There was considerable inquiry from mills, but bids were out of line.

Best cash corn demand in some time was reported, and it was claimed that shipping sales were larger than reported. 500 bushels was unchanged to 1¢ higher, with new No. 3 grades 14 1/2¢ under and No. 4 grades 14 1/2¢ under. May outside markets were unchanged to 1/2¢ higher. Official receipts of grain at Chicago Thursday: Wheat, 23 cars; corn, 190 cars; oats, 61 cars; rye, 3 cars; barley, 11 cars.

KRENN & DATO'S SCHOOL

OF REAL ESTATE

SALESMANSHIP.

The Krenn & Dato school of business training and real estate salesmanship is widely known and recognized as the best of its kind in Chicago.
For three years hundreds of men and women have received quick, intensive training and have been started on a successful selling career.

The course is short, thorough, and above all, practical. Lectures and real estate experts teach you the business and how to sell your property. Lectures will be given by experts.

TITLES, ABSTRACTS,

CONTRACTS,

LAND ECONOMICS,

PRACTICAL SELLING, ETC.

THIS COURSE IS ABSOLUTELY FREE.

Classes held TUESDAY
AND FRIDAY EVENINGS,
7:45 P. M. Private instruction will be arranged to suit the convenience of those who cannot attend at this time.

At the completion of the course you will receive a diploma and a full or part time salary.

Apply any time of the day or evening to the following address:

Marines to S Nicaragua

BY ARTHUR SEARS H

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.]—While Senator La Follette (Rep., Wis.) and other continued the attack today on the policy of dealing with Germany and Mexico, it was disclosed that President is undeterred by the clamor leveled at him.

There is to be no back-his attitude toward Mexico, either to the anti-America of the Calles government America or the threatened of American properties in Marines to Stay

American marines are in Nicaragua indefinitely to maintain order. Reports from Latimer today indicate that the revolution is on its last legs. American forces in protest of the Diaz government, recognize the United States.

"American marines now withdrawn from Nicaragua Borah [Rep., Idaho], predicted in conversation with Sen. Mr. Coolidge did not with the prediction.

It was Mr. Coolidge who the American marines in they had been in Nicaragua. That was the loss of peace the little republic. It made rapid progress, paid its debt, its people were making and the country was really prospering. The administration is that it was a mistake to the detachment of 100 men kept the peace.

Election Unconstitutional
The Nicaraguan mind today that the election of Senator Borah cannot legally stand. Under the Nicaraguan constitution, Diaz was elected to the term of Solormano. Not the conclusion of the term may be held.

The minister denied that involved in the Chamorro and asserted the minutes of the conference last fall substantiate President Coolidge's statement that the Sacasa delegation could not accept any one as president without betraying Mexican allies.

The principal attack on Kellogg's policy was made in the Senate by Senator La Follette who in his administration course in 1920 delivered an "unjustified and unconscionable" attack on Kellogg's policy. He analyzed the Kellogg memorandum as a "bohemian penetration of La Follette" to demonstrate his contention that it contains no evidence of a conspiracy to plot by Mexico.

Senator La Follette said he the action of the secretary making public, following ance before the senate com foreign relations, a docume
"Bolshevik Aims and Politi
ico, and Latin America."

"Let us remember," said Pollette, "that a great majority of the United States might be termed headline venture the assertion that a percentage of readers are today that Secretary Kellogg proffers the senate foreign relations committee evidence proving that was the center of a hoax against the United States. The newspapers have even drawn that same inference. The assertion there is not this chamber who believes such inference is to be drawn from document or that any such is proven by it.

Called Propaganda
 "This document is the file of propaganda. If it had come from any other source than the secretary of state, there would be no reputable newspaper editor in the United States who would have read its publication."

"The secretary of state," Senator Edge (Rep., N. J.), contending that memorandum charged anything, so far as secrecy was concerned, beyond what it had been turned in department by representatives of the department, and he gave it the name of a warning, I suppose, and a lesson of bolshevistic upturning. The senator read extracts from the memorandum and said:
